FLOOD FLOWS THROUGH DOWNTOWN PITTSBURGH AS MOUNTING WATERS LEAVE BANKS IN SIX STATES

Bilbao Asks Favorable Terms for Surrender

BASQUE PRESIDENT URGES DIPLOMATS TO SUE FOR PEACE

Envoys at St. Jean De Luz Requested To Act as Mediators as Insurgents Smash Through City's Outlying Defenses

MOLA BROADCASTS PLEA TO BESIEGED

Addressing Foe as 'Brothers,' Rebel General Says 'We're Not Fighting You—But Communism.'

HENDAYE, Franco - Spanish Frontier (Tuesday), April 27.—(UP)—The Basque republican government today asked foreign diplomats at St. Jean de Luz if they would act as mediators and attempt to arrange favorable terms for surrender of besieged Bilbao to the Rebels.

President Jose Antonio Aguirre sent emissaries to St. Jean de Luz to sound out diplomats formerly accredited to the Spanish Loyalist government in Madrid who sought refuge in France when the Rebels advanced on the Spanish capital.

Argentine diplomatic sources revealed the emissaries' presence.

The emissaries arrived as Basque militia were reported retreating on most fronts around besieged Bilbao. Aguirre was preparing to remove all women, children and non-combatants.

INSURGENTS REACH OUTSKIRTS OF DURANGO.

VITORIA, Spain, April 26.—(AP) The Insurgents' northern offensive tonight was reported officially to have carried one force to the gates of Durango and another through Elbar to the outskirts of Marquina.

Marquina is approximately five miles north of Elbar, important munitions center set on fire by the retreating government troops.

Insurgent officers said they expected Durango, 16 miles southwest of Bilbao, the objective of the offensive, would be occupied tomorrow.

SHELL PER MINUTE DROPPED ON MADRID.

MADRID (Tuesday), April 27.—(UP)—Rebel artillery fired shells at one-minute intervals into Madrid early today, the first time during the five-month siege that a bombardment has started at such a time.

Twenty-three persons were killed and 100 wounded in yesterday's shelling.

Sleeping residents awoke and rushed into cellars when the pre-dawn bombardment began.

Heavy fighting continued on the El Pardo highway north of the capital and around Frenchman's bridge across the Manzanares river to the west, where 3,000 Rebels are cut off in University City.

General Miaja announced yesterday that planes will be sent out to bomb Rebel batteries when they open fire.

Collapse of the Loyalist cause in northern Spain was reported imminent.

The 340,000 terror-stricken inhabitants of Bilbao are reported willing to surrender if General

Van Sweringen Rail Empire Sold to 3 'Unknown' Investors

Control of Eighth of Nation's Facilities, Valued at 3 Billion Dollars, Purchased for About 8 Million; Consolidation, Fair Play Promised.

NEW YORK, April 26.—(AP)—A Pennsylvania philanthropist and two New York investment bankers—all in their forties and heretofore comparatively unknown in powerful financial circles—stepped into the limelight today as purchasers of the controlling block of securities in the vast Van Sweringen railroad empire—controlling about an eighth of the nation's entire rail facilities.

The three are Allan P. Kirby, of Wilkes Barre, Pa., son of one of the founders of the Woolworth chain and in the past chiefly interested in the Kirby family philanthropies, and Robert R. Young and Frank P. Kolbe, of the stock exchange firm of Young, Kolbe & Company.

The purchase was announced by George A. Ball, Muncie, Ind., glass jar manufacturer, on behalf of the George and Francis Ball Foundation-Philanthropic Institution to which the Indiana capitalist transferred the controlling stock of Midamerica Corporation, top Van Sweringen holding company, a month ago.

The purchase price was not disclosed, but Wall Street analysts have figured the current market value of these securities dominating the various interlocking companies, giving control to some $3,000,000,000 worth of railroad and real estate, at around $8,000,000.

Kolbe, chunky and dark haired, read a statement on behalf of the buyers, saying the purchase was made "with a sense of responsibility to the general public."

"We have no desire," he asserted, "to control other people's investments with a little investment of our own. We do not want to be out on that kind of a limb."

He explained it was their plan, eventually, to consolidate the various railroad properties and simplify the corporate structures of the various companies.

Kolbe emphasized: "The money we have put into these properties is our own money. We have no special obligations to any shippers, to any banking house, or to any group."

The principal railroads in the network are the Chesapeake & Ohio, Missouri Pacific, Erie, Nickel Plate and Pere Marquette.

Ball, who with George A. Tomlinson, Cleveland shipping man, formed Midamerica Corporation, in 1935, said:

"Acceptance of the offer of these gentlemen passes into strong and capable hands the ownership of these important properties."

Ball and Tomlinson formed Midamerica to bid in at public auction the dominant Van Sweringen securities when they were sold two years ago at a price of $3,121,000.

Both Young and Kolbe are former

HIGH COURT HOLDS HERNDON VERDICT UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Conviction of Negro Communist Under Georgia Anti-Sedition Statute Voided by New Ruling of U. S. Supreme Court.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP) The supreme court relieved Angelo Herndon, negro Communist, of an 18-year prison sentence today, finding that his conviction under the ancient Georgia anti-sedition statute was unconstitutional.

By a five-to-four decision, it held that, in the Herndon case at least, the law infringed upon constitutional liberties by placing "vague and indeterminate" limits upon the rights of freedom of speech and assembly.

Herndon was convicted after the state accused him of possessing radical literature. The case, which had assumed the position of a minor cause celebre, was one of 15 which the court, returning from a two-week recess, decided today. It withheld its judgment on the constitutionality of the unemployment tax provisions of the federal social security act.

However, it agreed, at the same time, to consider the validity of the old-age pension section of that act, leading to predictions in some quarters that the former verdict will be delayed to permit simultaneous opinions on both sections of the law.

Whether the Herndon decision had the effect of invalidating the old Georgia law, enacted during the turbulent Reconstruction era, or was confined to the case at issue, was not clear.

RIVERS TO LAUNCH SOCIAL LAW DRIVE

Governor To Make Address Over Radio, Ignoring Impending Fight

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP) Governor Rivers will seek tomorrow to enlist and co-ordinate the efforts of 10 southeastern states in a move to obtain lower freight rates for the south.

Assembling the governors and congressional delegations of the several states here for a conference, the Georgia executive will outline plans for carrying a pending case to a final hearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The ICC already has agreed to hear the case, but has not set a definite hearing date pending final arrangements for presentation of the petition.

"We hope," Rivers explained, "to get the full support and co-operation of all states in the south in this movement to eliminate the freight schedules which discriminate against southern industry."

"Until the south can get rates as low as those from the eastern and northern manufacturing centers, it cannot hope to expand industrially as rapidly as we think it should."

With Rivers will be the three members of the Georgia Public Service Commission, already working on supporting data for presentation of the case to the ICC.

The same group will appear with the Governor later this week before the Rural Electrification Administration in an effort to obtain a larger allocation of funds to Georgia, where the rural electrification program has been advanced to the greatest extent of any southern state.

The Governor also will confer with federal road officials on the threatened reversion of monies allocated to Georgia due to the state's diversion of highway funds for other departments in 1936.

Thousands View Brilliant Parade and Rites at Oakland Cemetery.

Atlanta curtailed routine activities yesterday to renew its allegiance to the memory of the lost cause and to pay tribute again to the fast-fading ranks of Confederate veterans.

Banks and schools observed a holiday while thousands assembled at Oakland cemetery for memorial services, where Judge John D. Humphries was the orator of the day.

Preceding the exercises at the cemetery, a five-mile-long parade proceeded from Peachtree and Baker streets to Oakland, by way of Whitehall and East Hunter streets.

Pass in Review.

The parade, with sections representing Fort McPherson, schools of Atlanta and Georgia, and military, civic and fraternal organizations, moved past a reviewing stand on the terrace of the Capital City Club, where sat the officials of the Ladies' Memorial Association and their guests.

Lines of spectators began forming along the announced route long before the procession started. Colonel Thomas L. Alexander, commanding officer of the 122d Infantry, Georgia National Guard, served as marshal of the day.

Mrs. Arthur McD. Wilson Jr., president of the Atlanta Ladies' Memorial Association which sponsored the day's activities, had as her special guests on the reviewing stand General George Van Horn Moseley, commander of the fourth corps area, U. S. A.; J. L. Driver and J. M. Nash, Atlanta's ranking officers of the United Confederate Veterans, and the officers of Atlanta's other memorial and historical associations.

Judge Humphries, of Fulton superior court, delivered the principal address of the day after interment of the remains.

FLESH TESTS USED IN DENHARDT CASE

NEW CASTLE, Ky., April 26.—(AP)—Pieces of flesh cut from the body of Verna Garr Taylor showing the bullet wounds that killed her were displayed in the Henry county court room today as the state endeavored to tighten its web of circumstantial evidence around poorly Brigadier General Henry H. Denhardt, who is charged with shooting the pretty widow.

Spectators peered eagerly as Commonwealth Attorney H. B. Kinsolving Jr., had Dr. John T. Walsh display squares of flesh cut from Mrs. Taylor's left breast, where the bullet entered and from her back, where it emerged.

Hog Used For Test.

Previously the state had shown sections cut from a hog through which bullets had been fired at various distances. The hog had been covered with pieces of the woman's clothing before the shots were fired into it.

Defense Counsel fought to have the animal exhibits excluded, but after an hour and a half conference in Circuit Judge Charles C. Marshall's chambers he allowed the state to present the gruesome exhibits.

From the markings on the flesh cut from the woman's body and from those taken from the hog the state indicated the death gun was held at a distance not closer than nine inches.

Dr. Walsh, however, testified he

Melvin Purvis Leaves Bride by Air; Marriage to Pretty Actress 'Off'

Janice Jarratt's Mother Announces Marriage, Scheduled Thursday 'Is Off.'

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, April 26.—(UP)—The wedding of Janice Jarratt, motion picture actress, and Melvin Purvis, former G-man, has been indefinitely postponed. Miss Jarratt's mother announced tonight.

Purvis was understood to have left San Antonio for North Carolina by plane this afternoon.

First indication that there had been a break between the nation's former ace G-man and the "sweetheart of the Texas Centennial" came this afternoon when Miss Jarratt failed to appear at a pre-nuptial party given in her honor.

The hostess announced that "Mr. Purvis has left town and the wedding is off."

They were to have been married Thursday night in St. Mark's Episcopal church. It was estimated that the wedding would have been a big event.

JANICE JARRATT.

RED CROSS ORDERS FIFTY CHAPTERS TO RESCUE WORK

Johnstown Section Covered, Wheeling Island Residents Prepare To Flee and East Liverpool Faces Factory Closure.

CANADIAN FLOOD TRAPS THOUSANDS

London, Ontario, Pounded by Highest Water in 40 Years as Thames Rises 6 Inches an Hour.

By the Associated Press.

With memories of the disastrous January floods still fresh, residents of six states on both sides of the Alleghenies were alarmed tonight as continuous rains sent rivers and streams out of their banks.

The high water area spread into Canada, with London, Ontario, evacuating 6,000 persons as the Thames river, rising six inches an hour under the pulse of rain-swollen tributaries, reached its highest level in 40 years.

Boats were lacking in the Canadian city to remove several thousand more residents from homes endangered when a break-water overflowed.

Johnstown Flooded.

Less critical was the situation at Johnstown, Pa., the historic "flood city," where the rivers crested with water lapping through downtown streets. In the neighboring city of Pittsburgh merchants of low-lying streets replaced flood gates and sandbag barriers removed after the January flood, as flood waters of two rivers again flowed into the "Golden Triangle."

Quick to cope with the threat of rising waters, the American Red Cross in Washington ordered officials of more than 30 chapters in the Potomac and James river basin to prepare immediately for flood rescue work.

From Wheeling, W. Va., word was received that the city's third serious flood in three months would affect 1,000 families. A thousand cots and blankets were immediately dispatched from Memphis to Wheeling.

Ready to Evacuate.

Residents of crowded Wheeling Island in the middle of the Ohio river prepared to leave their homes quickly, if necessary, after receiving warnings that the river would go from 9 to 12 feet above a 36-foot flood stage.

Downriver from Wheeling there was less alarm, although thousands of Ohio valley residents, many of whose homes still show the marks of the January deluge, watched the slow rise of the river.

East Liverpool faced a shutdown of its pottery industry as the river climbed, and at Steubenville it was feared the Ohio would reach 40 feet, five feet above the stage where steel mills must be closed.

The weather bureau at Cincinnati, which had its worst flood in history three months ago, said the waters would probably be absorbed in the broadening Ohio before they reached the Queen City.

The situation by rivers:

London, Ontario, with a population of 71,000, was the center of damage as the rivers overflowed, inundating sections of the city, and submerging farm and dairy areas. Several settlements near Brantford were isolated by high waters. At Erieau, a fishing village, residents feared stormy Lake Erie would smash the dyke connecting the settlement with the mainland.

The Red Cross set up refugee stations to care for the thousands of homeless in London, while military authorities dispatched.

Bishop W.F. McDowell, Unificationist, Passes

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP) Bishop William W. McDowell, 79, for many years a prominent figure in the Methodist Episcopal church, died here today.

He was stricken by a heart attack soon after returning to his home from Morganton, N. C., where he had been on a lecture tour.

McDowell was bishop in charge of the Washington area from 1916 to 1932. Since then he has been chairman of the committee on unification of the Methodist Episcopal church, the Methodist Protestant church and the Methodist Episcopal church, south.

Light Dust Storm Descends on City

A visitor from the "dust bowl" of the southwest blew into Atlanta yesterday, in the form of a light dust storm, said by United States weather bureau officials to have originated in the once stricken area two or three days ago.

A stiff blow of wind came up in the early afternoon and soon the city was shrouded with a haze of dust, pedestrians and motorists suffered from grit in their eyes.

In explanation of the storm, officials said it was picked up in the plains of the southwest and taken to higher atmosphere. Arriving here, the wind's pace having grown less furious as it progressed, the dust settled closer to earth.

Meanwhile, clear and warmer weather was in prospect for today, with temperatures not expected to fall below 52 degrees.

Yesterday's high mark was recorded at 68 degrees and low at 49.

ROOSEVELT FORBIDS STOCK SPECULATION TO U. S. EMPLOYEES

Executive Order to Million Workers Permits Investments.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(P) President Roosevelt prohibited stock market speculation by the government's 1,000,000 employees today.

It is against sound government policy, the President declared, for any officer, or employee, to trade directly, or indirectly, except for "bona fide investment purposes."

He instructed the Civil Service Commission and the heads of all departments and agencies to consider any violations of this decree in deciding what employees should be retained or promoted.

A close associate said the President acted primarily to protect the average $1,800-a-year government clerk from stock gambling temptations. Asked if the order were issued because the President believed stock prices too high, this official said he did not think so.

Officials estimated 825,000 civil employees would be affected and that the personnel of the nation's armed forces would bring the total to 1,000,000.

Roosevelt's order covered speculation in bonds and commodities as well as stocks.

COURT PLAN IS HIT BY NEW ENGLANDER

New Hampshire Senator Accuses Roosevelt of Trying To Kill Democracy.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(P) Senator Bridges, New Hampshire, Republican, declared tonight that President Roosevelt is trying to legislate democracy out of existence.

Speaking by radio on the eve of senate judiciary committee sessions at which the President's court legislation will meet its first legislative test, he said:

"No dictator ever ran on a platform calling for a dictatorship, and it is no sufficient answer to deny that a dictatorship is the aim of a group in control."

If enacted, Bridges declared, the President's bills for six new supreme court justices and for reorganization of administrative agencies would set up "an all-powerful executive government."

His address was a prelude to controversy due to break tomorrow at an executive session of the judiciary committee. Its long hearings concluded, the committee will begin considering the measure by sentence and making such revisions as a majority of the closely divided group may direct.

Senator Van Nuys, Indiana, Democrat, plans to propose at the outset that the measure be split into two bills, with the section on the supreme court left to stand or fall by itself.

TENNESSEE PLEDGES COLLECTED IN FULL

NASHVILLE, April 26.—(P)—Dr. Stanley Teachout, Tennessee treasurer for last fall's Democratic state and national campaigns, closed his books today and reported that every pledge had been collected, all bills paid and a "complete auditor's report" forwarded to national headquarters.

Dr. Teachout said he was advised by national headquarters Tennessee was the only state turning in a complete auditor's report.

Cain Contemplates Soviet Russia As Train Rolls to Vladivostok

Traveler, However, Fears To Divulge Truth About Country, as He Saw It, Even After Return to Atlanta Home.

By ARTHUR CAIN.

Things began to thaw out a little as my train continued to move southward. For several days there was nothing visible through the dingy pane except a vast expanse of snow and ice.

Arthur Cain

This was the steppes of Russia of which I had heard all my life. My opinion of the rambling old Cosacks who "rode like mad" through the sleet and snow of this vicinity heightened considerably when I thought of the way Cain was shivering and shaking even when inside a heated railroad car. I couldn't fancy being out in the wind, and riding horseback on top of that.

Here and there now was an occasional patch of green showing through the whiteness of a Russian winter which bid fair to be the worst in many years. Around Archangel, up towards the arctic circle, temperatures of 50 and 60 below had been reported and the death rate was increasingly high. Cain breathed a sigh of thanks that he was traveling southward, where the mercury stood at a mere zero instead of being stuck fast in that frigid clime. We remembered how we had suffered under an African sun just a few months before and felt better about it all.

Always Extremes.

We had plenty of time on this trip from Moscow to Vladivostok to reflect upon the events of the past year. Things seemed to jump consistently from one extreme to the other. We were either freezing to death in one place or getting sunstroke in another. We either had so much money that we didn't know what to do with it, or there was not a cent in the Cain pocket at all. Somewhere we would have liked to strike the happy medium but it was practically impossible.

In a little more than a year we had visited both the southernmost and northernmost portions of the world. Capetown, 35 degrees below the equator, and Tromso, the Norwegian port from whence the aurora borealis is seen, represented the scope of my travels. But we wished many times that we could have straightened out these miles laterally—we would have been home long before this.

Here in the Soviet our chief worry concerned the mails and the censorship of my letters back home. There was so many things Cain was dying to say but since we were already treading upon thin ice, both literally and figuratively, we exerted extreme caution. In

WOMEN DISCUSS F. D. R. COURT PLAN

Club Members Refuse To Divulge Outcome of Controversy.

TULSA, Okla., April 26.—(P)—Lobby discussions on President Roosevelt's federal judiciary proposals accentuated tonight a controversy on the plan within the general council of the Federation of Women's Clubs.

The question was whether the council would go on record as opposed to or in favor of the President's plan. Leaders said council members were divided about evenly.

Greatest interest attached to a court plan mail poll of state federations taken by Mrs. Roberta Campbell Lawson, general president, who declined emphatically to divulge the outcome.

"It is a matter for the board of directors," she said. "The poll will not be made public until and if the board so decides."

MONTGOMERY STORE LOOT TOTALS $2,500

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 26.—(P)—Burglars blew open the safe in the S. H. Kress Company store here over the week end and obtained between $2,500 and $3,000. Detective Chief Paul Rapoport said today.

Rapoport said officials of the store told him approximately $1,000 in small change and $1,500 in bills was missing.

Hundreds of sales tax tokens were scattered on the floor. The chief said no one who heard the explosion had been located.

THIRD FATAL STABBING BY CONVICT REPORTED

NASHVILLE, April 26.—(P)—Institutions Commissioner George Cate received a report today from Deputy Warden Ed Connors that Albert Skidmore, negro, serving a life sentence, killed Lewis Trimmings, negro, also under a life sentence for murder, at the state penitentiary last night.

It was the third fatal stabbing at the prison in which Skidmore was involved and two other negro prisoners had been wounded by him.

HEARING REOPENS ON SHIP CANAL BILL

Committee Hopes To End Testimony Before Night Recess.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(P) The house rivers and harbors committee reopens a hearing on the Florida ship canal tomorrow with the expressed determination to end testimony before it calls a night recess.

Chairman Mansfield, Texas Democrat, insisted he would permit but one more day of testimony, whether all witnesses have a chance to testify or not.

The announcement brought a protest from Representative J. Hardin Peterson, of Florida, who said it would be unfair to the opposition not to continue the hearing longer.

Representative R. A. Green, of Florida, a canal advocate, agreed with Mansfield the committee should halt the testimony tomorrow afternoon.

"The committee let the opponents have three hours for every hour we had," he said, "but we don't mind that. We want them to be heard, but I agree with the chairman that it is time now to close the hearing."

Representative Beiter, New York Democrat, said he still planned to offer a motion to send the committee's omnibus river and harbor bill to the house without reference to the canal.

The New Yorker said he would introduce the motion tomorrow if enough canal opponents attend the committee session.

DUCHESS PASSES

Dowager of Roxburgh Was Ex-American.

LONDON, April 27.—(P)—The dowager Duchess of Roxburgh, who inherited $3,000,000 in 1929 from her mother, Mrs. Mary Golet, of Newport, R. I., died here today.

The Duchess, who was a personal friend of Queen Mary, was married to the Duke of Roxburgh in 1903. He died in 1932.

She was one of the wealthiest American women in the British nobility. Her father was Ogden Golet, American multi-millionaire, who died in 1899 aboard his yacht at Cowes.

In recent years she had shown an interest in aviation.

Twenty Minutes Taken To Catch Alleged Thieves

The arrest of three suspects in a $155 holdup shortly after noon yesterday was made in exactly 20 minutes through co-operative work of city and county policemen, with recovery of nearly $110 of the money.

Morris Rothstein, an employee of the Georgia Hide and Junk Company, was held up by two white men at 12:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the company office at 1001 Marietta street. Mr. Rothstein said neither of the men drew a gun, but one of them held his hand inside his coat, "as if he had a gun."

When the holdup men had left with the $155 in cash Mr. Rothstein called the police. Radio Patrolmen J. B. Bishop Jr. and R. O. Williams, answering the call, encountered County Patrolman T. J. Davis, who told them he had just seen three "suspicious looking men" enter a residence on Howell Mill road.

Going to the residence the officers took three men into custody after finding approximately $110 on their persons. They were listed as T. D. Johnson, 23, of 683 Jones avenue; Howard Johnson, 27, no address; and Horace Lively, 26, of 683 Jones avenue. The two Johnson men were identified as the holdup men by Rothstein, according to police, but Lively denied any knowledge of the holdup.

MAYOR WOULD USE CITY HALL SITE SALE TO REDUCE DEFICIT

Hartsfield Says Possible $500,000 Already Earmarked for Indebtedness.

Mayor Hartsfield yesterday reiterated intentions of retiring a part of Atlanta's $1,700,000 deficit with receipts from the sale of the old city hall site, when and if the city property is sold.

Negotiations are under way for its sale at a price of $500,000, and members of the city board of education have asked the administration to allocate the sum for the erection of new modern, fire-proof school buildings at the Henry W. Grady school (Tech and Boys' High), and the Maddox and Murphy Junior High schools.

"The people of Atlanta were promised that the money from the old city hall site would be applied to the city's indebtedness when they voted the 1926 bond issue," said Hartsfield, who, as a member of city council at the time, was chairman of the bond issue campaign committee.

"So far as I am concerned, the money will be applied to the indebtedness," he asserted. The mayor has previously announced that if good times continue and the old city hall site is sold for $500,000, which would be applied to the deficit, that the 1-mill ad valorem tax increase voted to retire the deficit could be eliminated one or two years before the five-year limitation ends. The mill is set up by council and the legislature for five years.

"By application of the receipts from the 1 mill earmarked for the deficit, and good business management of the city government, the cash indebtedness could be wiped out in three years," the mayor stated.

Ed S. Cook, president of the school board, and other members Saturday stated that diversion of the $500,000 expected from the sale would be the only way the school buildings could be erected without another bond issue.

JUDICIARY POWERS UPHELD BY GEORGE

Senator, in Moultrie, Tells How Human Liberty May Be Preserved.

MOULTRIE, Ga., April 26.—(AP) Senator Walter F. George told a Confederate Memorial Day audience here today the preservation of human liberty is dependent upon the "doctrine of division and separation of political powers."

Identified with a senate group opposing President Roosevelt's court reorganization proposal, George declared: "We will do wrong if we do not uphold the executive in the exercise of every power given him by the people; we will do wrong if we do not uphold the legislative branch of the government in the exercise of every power which we have given it; and we will do an equal wrong and the consequences will be irreparable if we do not uphold the judicial branch in the rightful exercise of every power which we have bestowed upon it."

The senator made no direct reference to the proposed court reorganization.

$2,500 BOND GRANTED IN MOULTRIE SLAYING

MOULTRIE, Ga., April 26.—(AP) Mrs. Coy Stephenson, 40, charged with the fatal shooting of Miss Jessie Mae Wilkes, pretty brunette garment factory worker, was at liberty today in bond of $2,500. Bond was granted by Judge W. E. Thomas.

Deputy Sheriff J. H. Phillips said the shooting of Miss Wilkes on the street here last week grew out of "jealousy."

Mrs. Stephenson, mother of three children, separated from her husband recently, the deputy said.

Young in Years But Old in Liquor Making

An expert still tender is the young fellow shown at left above, according to County Officer Tiny Green, who assisted in a raid seven miles north of Alpharetta yesterday afternoon. Cecil Wood, the 13-year-old boy, was firing the still when the officers closed in, Patrolman Green reported. Wilborn Wood, 20-year-old brother of the boy, was taken into custody at the same time.

Moonshiner, 13, Is 4-Year Veteran In Rum Making Art—and Proves It

"Too Much Fire," He Tells Officer During "Demonstration"—Patrolman Thinks Not. But Cap of Still Blows Off, Spurring Boiling Liquid.

By T. K. JONES.

Fulton county police yesterday found a child prodigy—13-year-old Cecil Wood, moonshiner extraordinary!

Patrolman H. H. (Tiny) Green and H. W. Reed said Cecil was busily firing a small still and "turning out good liquor" in a wooded section near his home about seven miles north of Alpharetta in the Double Branch district when they came upon him.

The lad's brother, Wilborn, 20, was arrested near by carrying whisky from the still to his home the officers said. A short time later the boys' father, Ed Wood, 44, was taken into custody in Alpharetta and charged with being drunk and disorderly in a public place after he allegedly cursed a minister.

Officer Green said he was amazed at Cecil's talent as a dis-tiller. "But the biggest shock came," said he, "when the boy revealed that he had known how to work around a still for about four years."

A painful incident first convinced the officers—particularly Green—that they had found a prodigy. But let him tell it:

"He seemed to be a swell youngster and I finally coaxed him into giving me a demonstration of his ability. The fire under the still had about gone out and I began throwing on more fuel, while Cecil explained his method."

"Suddenly he told me the fire was getting too hot and it would be advisable for me to leave it alone. I replied that I had been finding stills for years and felt sure I knew enough about them to take care of myself. That was my big mistake. I had hardly finished speaking when the cap of the still, which had been weighted down with a 50-pound stone, blew

FARM YOUTH SLAIN; FATHER ARRESTED

'Family Row' Blamed for Fatal Shooting in Oglethorpe County.

STEPHENS, Ga., April 26.—(AP) An 18-year-old boy was dead, his mother injured and his father in jail on a murder charge following what Sheriff T. E. Watkins, of Oglethorpe county, called "a family row" this morning.

Sheriff Watkins said a warrant charging Frank Earnest, a farmer, with murder of his son, Marvin, had been sworn out. Earnest was arrested in Athens this morning, where he had gone to carry his son to a hospital.

Mrs. Earnest, according to the sheriff, was struck on the head by her husband with the shotgun he had used to kill his son, who was shot in the abdomen as he sat in the house by a fire. Sheriff Watkins said the shot was fired high into the air, spraying my feet with the boiling fluid. "Believe me, next time I'll listen to that boy."

Patrolman Green, after taking the elder brother to Fulton tower, said he "just couldn't look up the kid. I'll take him home with me, and tomorrow morning we'll go to see Juvenile Court Judge Watkins."

Eight gallons of whisky and about 300 gallons of mash was found at the still, the officers said.

through an open door from the front porch. Earnest brought his son to the city limits of Athens, called an ambulance from a filling station, and went on to the hospital. When he left the station, its proprietor called Athens officers, who arrested Earnest at the hospital. He is being held in city jail while Oglethorpe county officers arrive to carry him to Lexington, Ga., where he will be lodged in jail. The boy lived only a few minutes after arriving at the hospital here.

Five Generations Present at Party For Mrs. Kent

COVINGTON, Ga., April 26.—Five generations of one family were present yesterday when Mrs. Dollie Kent, who has 141 direct descendants, celebrated her 86th birthday anniversary at the residence of her grandson, Jim McGiboney, six miles west of Covington.

More than 300 relatives of the well-known resident of Newton county attended the party given in her honor by her five sons and daughters, her 25 grandchildren, her 80 great-grandchildren and 31 great-great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Kent was born in Rockdale county in 1851 and lived as a child in the state of Mississippi. She married Van Kent there and subsequently returned to Rockdale county. He died 10 years ago.

In good health as she celebrated her birthday anniversary, Mrs. Kent recalled the beginning and end of the War between the States and said Confederate soldiers camped three days in her front yard while awaiting battle with enemy forces.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR BACHMAN

Tennessee Senator Is Buried at Foot of Lookout Mountain.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 26.—(AP)—An impressively simple funeral service for Senator Nathan Lynn Bachman was held in First Presbyterian church today.

A prayer, the hymn "Abide With Me," a Bible reading and another prayer by the pastor, Dr. James L. Fowle, made up the service. Burial was in the family lot in Forest Hills cemetery at the foot of Lookout mountain.

The flower banked church was filled an hour before the funeral. During the service the crowd overflowed into the street almost a block in each direction.

Congressional and senatorial committees arrived from Washington yesterday with the body.

Senator Bachman, who was 58 years old, died of a heart ailment Friday night in Washington.

Miss Virginia Keister has lived for 20 years at 702 Virginia avenue, Virginia Heights, Roanoke, Virginia.

STARTLING FIGURES

The National Association of Manufacturers reports that the number of persons on the pay rolls today has reached the 1929 levels and that 3,310,000 workers have found jobs since 1933.

Granting even the approximate correctness of this statement, its significance is apparent. It means that private industry has progressed far toward solving the unemployment problem.

It means that soon, if industry is permitted to pursue its normal course, the total of unemployed will be no greater than normal—and that the emergency which necessitated the federal spending of billions for relief and work-relief programs no longer exists.

There can be no sound objection, if the manufacturers' association figures are correct, to the reduction of the federal appropriation for relief to whatever extent is necessary to balance the national budget. Then will be possible the essential first step toward the reduction of taxation which is acting to slow down the climb to a new and permanent prosperity.

The suggestion for a rapid federal census of the unemployed, to clarify the widely divergent claims made by different sources, is wise. Such a census would not only determine the amount yet needed for federal relief—if any—but would disclose waste that may exist in the administration of federal relief.

There always have been, and always will be, a certain number of unemployed and unemployables. In normal times these nonproducers are cared for by their families, by the municipalities in which they live, by churches and charitable organizations, by fraternal orders and other agencies.

The days of 1933, when the policy of federal relief was inaugurated, were acutely abnormal. The proportion of unemployed had reached such a point that it was necessary for the federal government to assume the emergency burden if serious disaster was to be avoided.

Today, however, if the figures of the manufacturers are correct, that emergency is over. Normalcy in employment and unemployment has practically returned and the normal methods of providing for the unemployed should return likewise. Those who are on federal relief should be returned to the care of their families and those local governments and organizations which have in the past supplied their wants.

With the load of unemployment relief lifted from the federal treasury, the budget can be balanced, the national debt reduced and the tax burden lightened.

Then industry, agriculture and trade will go forward to a new era of prosperity that will make easy the care of the normal amount of unemployment that must always exist.

IS CUPID LEARNING?

Can it be that Fulton county humanity is growing better, that men and women are learning to be tolerant of each other, that the touch of connubial understanding is warming the hearts of more matrimonial pairs?

Friday of last week the divorce calendar in Fulton courts was approximately half that of a normal Friday. Only 27 couples appeared asking for the severing of the bonds which had grown irksome, while it is customary for at least half a hundred cases to appear on the divorce docket for that day.

It is an encouraging sign. When marriage continues, in this day of easy divorce, it is presumptive evidence, at least, of a satisfactory condition of happiness, or contentment, on the part of the united couple.

Perhaps Cupid, in recent years, has recovered somewhat from his proverbial blindness—perhaps he has slipped one eye, at least, from under the bandage and is taking greater care before he aims his darts. Possibly he is exercising a degree of judgment in choosing his victims; maybe he has taken a course in the Olympian college on the subjects of eugenics and congeniality.

A thief who took $800 from a western church says the impulse came over him as he passed. The choir, perhaps, was singing "Steal Away."

A truck-driving bigamist in he east refuses to divulge how he maintained two households on $14 a week. The better magicians are like that.

The Nazis are great opportunists, it seems. When in an economic jam, they advise spreading it on bread in place of butter.

A GOOD SUGGESTION

Tentative plans to complete the rebuilding of the city auditorium by providing two additional convention halls through changes in the entrance lobby and Taft hall will receive unanimous approval. As announced by Councilman John A. White, chairman of the building and grounds committee of council, the plans have already received unofficial WPA approval, but final decision cannot be made until after June 30, when continuation or end of WPA activities will be decided.

These smaller, auxiliary halls are needed to make the new auditorium the asset it should be to the city. Hundreds of conventions are held here annually and hundreds more would be attracted to the city if proper meeting halls were provided. For each big convention, logical user of the auditorium proper, there are many which require smaller gathering places.

The two additional halls for such sessions should be added to the auditorium, if it is possible to secure them.

NATHAN LYNN BACHMAN

Georgians join in paying tribute to the memory of a distinguished citizen of a neighbor state, United States Senator Nathan Lynn Bachman, of Tennessee. Yesterday Senator Bachman, who died in Washington last Friday, was laid to rest in the soil of his native city, Chattanooga, while mourners of every class and every type, from his own state and from other southern states, gave their last homage to a man who had served his people well.

Senator Bachman was not of the type that seeks the ephemeral fame that comes from demagogic appeal to the unthinking. He did not cater to those who give of their applause cheaply. Rather, he sought, always, to render to his state and to his nation real service. Whether that service was through conscientious conviction upon some matter of world import, or whether it was through kindly help to an individual, no matter how humble, Senator Bachman was always willing to devote his best energies, his most careful thought.

He combined in his nature the finest qualities of potential statesmanship with that type of political wisdom that is kindly in its humanity, rather than astute in its opportunism.

THE NATION'S FIRST ASSET

Observation of "Child Health Day" on Saturday next, May Day, again accentuates the most important asset enjoyed in all the natural wealth of the United States. That asset is the children of the country and their high average of good health.

It is in the hands of this coming generation that the fate of the nation rests; into their hands we shall pass the torch when the black angel, Azrael, softly touches us and says our work is done.

There can be nothing more important to the nation than the good health of our children. Though the ideal for which government and the public should strive in this respect is yet far distant, remarkable strides toward that goal have been made in recent years.

Good citizenship is difficult without clean, clear, healthful minds, and healthy minds are primarily dependent upon healthy bodies. Health of the children is therefore the foundation stone upon which the progress of the state, and of the race, must be largely based.

Georgia's celebration of Child Health Day has enlisted the active interest of the state's leaders and of the public. Proclamations by the Governor and by the mayors of the various cities have served to focus attention upon the day.

Governor Rivers has agreed to head the state's official program by an address, broadcast from an Atlanta radio station. There will be meetings and programs in practically every county in the state.

If the importance of regular physical examination for every child in Georgia and of the proper treatment for the correction of physical faults or incipient disease can be impressed upon all our people, Child Health Day will prove to be the greatest of all days in the calendar.

Editorial of the Day

COTTON FOR CELLULOSE

(From the Spartanburg Herald.)

Is the day of picking, ginning and baling the cotton crop coming to an end? One will believe so after reading the announcement to the American Chemical Society made by Dr. Frank K. Cameron of the University of North Carolina.

Dr. Cameron has conducted a series of experiments, covering several years, in the production of cotton, to prove that the south has been throwing values away while retaining only the lint and seed of the cotton plant. He has proved to his own satisfaction that the whole cotton plant—stalk, boll, lint and seed—can be harvested and made into cellulose after the oil has been chemically extracted from the seed. The cotton pickers would give way to mechanical reapers, and instead of expensive ginning and baling the crop would be prepared for market by a machine similar to that which bales hay.

If the vision of the North Carolina professor becomes a reality, the effect will be revolutionary. There will be no use for the mechanical cotton pickers which inventors are said to have perfected. The cotton gin industry which has grown to large proportions will be without a market for its gins. The vexatious problem of jute bagging will be completely solved and the inneries scattered throughout the cotton fields of the south will be useless. Cotton pickers will operate the harvesters and balers under the new system. There will be a change in the method of planting and cultivation of the cotton crop which will do away with the "chopping" of cotton. Paper mills will be attracted to the south, where they will be guaranteed abundance of raw material which can be grown in one season.

It may be a dream but chemists agree with Dr. Cameron that his announcement is sound. If it proves practicable the south is in for a new era and one of new adjustment which should bring prosperity to southern farms, towns and cities.

Pity the Italian "volunteer" in Spain. Having survived weeks of shot and shell, he learns from Rome official dispatches that he doesn't exist.

The new constitution of India fills some 600 pages, which should keep judges interpreting its commas for the next 20 administrations.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON.

WAITING FOR THE ECHO WASHINGTON, April 26.—The heir apparent, Mr. Wallace, furnished the only official cabinet reaction to President Roosevelt's hold-down budget warning. He said dolefully the government might have to scrap its whole farm legislation program—farm tenancy, crop insurance and over-normal granary. Mr. Wallace should have put the accent on the "might."

It is an old political custom for officials in doubt to advertise their troubles and then sit down and wait for the echo. Usually, when it is officially hinted that any such large organized group as the farmers are going to lose anything, the echo comes rolling back like political thunder.

HOARSENESS This time, the nymph of the fields seems to have a cold or something. It may be that the western farmers do not care much about farm tenancy that the crop insurance and granary proposals are largely Wallace ideas which the farm congressmen and farm organizations consider to be good but not urgent, or a dozen other things.

At any rate, the program has not been ditched. The best guess is that the $50,000,000 farm tenant bill will be cut drastically and passed on. (A lot of Democratic congressmen pledged themselves to it in the last campaign, and are up for re-election next year.) The insurance and granary plan will rest indefinitely in the house agriculture committee unless the echo gets much louder than it has been. Conservative administration is trying to kill it, and House Chairman Jones does not care much for it.)

CROSSED FINGERS Much of the legislative program is in the same fix—particularly taxes. Ordinarily the President's public edict against tax revision until next session would be conclusive evidence that there will not be any this session. That is by no means certain now.

A minor bill will be passed continuing excise taxes which are expiring. This bill is open to any and all departments. If the treasury happens to change its mind around June 15, it could shoot up some tax revision provisions it has already prepared. It might even add some new taxes if congress passes any extra-budgetary appropriations in the meantime.

TIMING A neat job of hiding the flood control button is being played on congress by downtown authorities. The flood states congressmen do not like it, but they may have to.

The report of the army engineers took weeks. Then it went to the White House, then to the National Resources Board. Latest dope is that it has recently been on its leisurely way back to the White House. The idea, they say, was to hold it away from congress until the current economy move could be started.

There will be a fight about it, but probably not a bill. NOTE—Similarly sensational timing is noticeable on the national defense bills, particularly the navy bill. The President's budget warning arrived after the big navy bill had passed both houses and the army bill was ready to go through.

PEACE A tremendous personal scrap between Chairmen Pittman and McReynolds is supposed to be holding up the neutrality compromise, but it may be more tremendous than scrappy. When a senate conferee like Mr. Pittman abandons a senate bill in favor of a house bill, he generally finds it necessary to have a big fight with someone about something in order to prove that he died for dear old senate. The fighting this time will be loud, but not necessarily fatal. The bill will be passed in just about its present form, which is what the President wanted in the first place.

The railroad retirement bill will go through easily. . . . The anti-lynching bill is being laid aside in the senate for trading purposes. (Leaders may buy a few supreme court packing votes by agreeing to drop it.) For this and other reasons its passage is more doubtful. . . . A new price plan, NRA, minimum wages and hours, is supposed to be nearly ripe, but the President has been very secretive about it and congress knows nothing. Messrs. Corcoran and Cohen are supposed to have devoted much of their personal time to this subject lately. . . . The $100,000,000 Harrison education bill is definitely among the unbilled dead. It will not pass, and, if passed, will be vetoed. . . . Senator Wagner is penning around to pre-serve the principle of his billion-dollar housing bill, but, if he saves anything, it will be only the principle. . . . The congressional leaders are going at their purpose of holding to the budget with great earnestness. An inside working arrangement has been made among house leaders to gang up against any and all amendments offered from the floor. The house also is being pledged to hold to any economies effected in appropriation bills by the senate. However, the budget is all in the laps of the gods, and political gods at that.

I saw some men, hard-working,
Along the road today,
I heard some chains, sharp-clanking,
I saw stripes and gray.

I wondered what, unlawful,
Each toiler there had done,
I wondered was it worth it,
For slavery, sun to sun.

There is a branch office in Atlanta which employs quite a large number of people. Headquarters of the company is in the north. The Atlanta workers asked about a holiday for Memorial Day and the request was referred to the home office.

The reply came back, through the local manager, himself a Northerner, that they could have either a full day holiday for Memorial Day or half a day then and another half day for Decoration Day. The manager left it to a vote of the office.

The vote was unanimous for the full holiday on Memorial Day. After the request was granted the employees crowded a little, feeling they had "put one over" on the management.

Because, you see, Decoration Day this year falls on Sunday.

Something to Be Proud About.

Regretting inability to accept a certain invitation this year. Hope it will be renewed twelve months hence, when the fates may be kinder. Here it is:

"I want to tell you about my dogwoods. I have 125 dogwoods in my front yard, some 12 inches in diameter and 40 feet tall, all natural growth. I have trimmed them to a perfect shape. They are just now blooming. At a distance it looks like a snow bank. I have 25 hollies in this grove, all natural growth. On an average four carbirds build nests in them every year. They sing some for me at morning, but meow like a cat most all day. My old cat climbs up and gets the young sometimes. I reckon he thinks if they are cat birds he has a right to them. Its just two and a half hours' drive. Come up."

Then follows directions how to reach the place. Surely wish I could but there are insurmountable difficulties in the way this spring.

Thanks, nevertheless.

Its A Bargain, Even At That.

According to a current magazine, women of America annually spend a sum for beauty aids and treatments that exceeds, by half a billion dollars, the total spent in the United States for bread, cakes and pies.

Beauty parlors, it is stated, take in $340,000,000 annually, while drug stores, department stores, gymnasiums and other dispensers of beauty enhancement bring the total up to two billion dollars.

Reducing that hunger for removal of what a girl considers surplus flesh, is alone a huge industry. Then there are the waxes, the steam and the light rays which are advocated for beautifying the skin. Feet and hands are another big

Fair Enough

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Cummings' WASHINGTON. April 26.—It is sad indeed to note the advance of the years in old Homer Cummings, but his 67th birthday is coming up next week, and we all know how the old gentleman stands on the matter of retirement at 70—the age when human judgment goes definitely haywire, especially in matters of the law, which is Mr. Cummings' profession.

That gives Mr. Cummings only three years to go, and I suppose he must be faltering slightly even now, because age doesn't just knock a man silly, like a clout with a nickel ball bat, on his seventieth birthday but creeps up in the late sixties—insidious and inevitable. By the time a man has seen his sixty-seventh birthday he must be pretty well along in the decline which becomes total and permanent three years later, but the pity of it is that he can't sense the gradual failure of his faculties and always thinks of himself as the exception.

Yet old Homer knows full well that when a human critter, and particularly a lawyer, arrives at the age from which he is now only three short years away he becomes an obdurate old joshier, living in the past and resentful of the swift, excited pace of a world which has his age mind and frame cannot keep up.

Still, just to look at the old gentleman now or pass the time of day with him you would hardly suspect that he was so close to the deadline, for his step is firm and his eye clear and he speaks with neither crack nor quaver in his voice. But, after all, he was born in 1870—a horse-and-buggy baby who in 1940 will be one with Charlie Hughes, Pierce Butler, George Sutherland and all that doddering crew.

Old Homer Old Homer goes back a very far piece, but, being human and a lawyer, when the time comes to pack his books and papers and for goodness' sake get out of a busy world's way, as like as not he will do the same as those other superannuated obstacles who have glared through their specs with watery eyes and declared they never felt better in all their born days.

In the words of an old song, Homer isn't much older on the inside than he is on the outside. The wool had oughta grow, and with so many years behind him his mind must be deeply rooted in the past for that is his official view of septuagenarians, of which he almost has the honor to be one. In this interpretation of fitness which old Homer has inducted with selfless loyalty to Mr. Big, will have to expire some time before the end of the Roosevelt administration, unless, of course, he develops that senile tendency so offensive in the aged members of the supreme court and, like them, hangs around flouting his own earlier judgment and impeding the progress of man.

And if he does try to hang on Mr. Roosevelt inconsistently will have to send the cop around to sling the poor old dodo down his own marble stairs at the Department of Justice, a spectacle I should not wish to see.

After That And, after that, Then What? Consider—old Homer's own judgment on the mental capacity of old men, who is going to hire him to do any lawing or to sit on a three-score years and he is rising to retire to Stamford, Conn., to sit around the city hall, where once he reigned as mayor, whittling the weary days away, with an ear cocked for the rustle of angels' wings, or will he put a sign out in Washington and sit for customers forwarding by his own sitting to take case to law?

Though Stamford, Greenwich and New Canaan are full of economic royalists, Homer gets a good report from the neighbors who are already fixed and to fix them where they do not yet obtain are coming to be imperatives of traffic. On the trip to which we refer after a long day of encountering the dreadful dinosaurs, it seemed that they grew larger and larger as night approached. And then, in the twilight, there loomed one unbelievably large, a veritable cloud of dinosaurs. When it came near enough he could see it for what it was. It was a truck with an elephant in it. Yes, an elephant. And there were we in our small Chevrolet, daring the road in competition. We marveled at our courage—and shuddered at what it had brought us to.

It is possible to make out an excellent case for permanently increased governmental expenditures to meet the social needs of a new day. It is possible, on the other hand, to make out a case for decreased governmental expenditures to meet the need of retrenchment after these years of so much public spending. But it is not possible to make any case at all for spending without paying. In this day of better income and happier prospects there is no excuse for living on borrowed money, for taking the future to finance the present. That is something on which everybody except the politicians ought to be able to agree, it seems to this column.

The Things That Mystified Him Are Made Clear When He Joins the Lodge

By ROBERT QUILEN.

In the good old horse and buggy days, we are told, men really knew how to treat a lady. But there are few more revealing indictments of any age than appears beneath the surface of the pledge commonly made by a gentleman of that area when he asked a lady to be his.

"My darling," he vowed, "I will be good to you." He didn't promise to feed her, for that was usual and taken for granted. He made the promise that good strategy seemed to require the promise that would calm her fears and overcome her reluctance. And the only reason for making it was the evident fact that many men were not good to their wives. A man asking for a job doesn't brag of a virtue that all men possess.

If a modern lover should make that pledge, the lady would look at him in wide-eyed astonishment and murmur: "Big boy, you'd better be."

Pledge or no pledge, modern American husbands are good to their wives—so good that contemptuous he-Englishmen call our land a matriarchy; so good that Indians and other orientals, according to solemn British statesmen, have seen the evidence in American movies and lost all their awe of the white man, thus threatening the reign of western civilization in the east; so good that the women take such treatment for granted and don't realize how lucky they are.

The American begins his married life by doing everything that his wife wishes him to do.

At first he does it as a labor of love, delighting in the opportunity to gratify every whim of his bride; somewhat later he does it to avoid offending her and spoiling the peaceful atmosphere of home with tears and reproaches; and finally, when she has learned to expect it as a natural right, he does it discreetly, helplessly and mechanically as a matter of habit.

This is the reason that married men secretly rejoice when a bachelor nearing 40 at last surrenders to nature and custom.

It is commonly believed that only women are made glad by a marriage, but observe the sly grin of husbands as they watch the groom. He'll soon be educated, darn him!

The reason for this is that husbands have many times done strange and curious things, like changing their minds without apparent reason or explanation, and the bachelor has considered them queer or untrustworthy or crazy.

They had to suffer in silence, for their code wouldn't let them mention their wives and pride wouldn't let them confess the truth. So they gleefully watch the bachelor being initiated, for they know his eyes will be opened and he will see what made them act that way.

THIS MORNING

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II.

"When you were a tadpole and I was a fish
In the Paleozoic time,
And, side by side on the ebbing tide,
We sprawled through the ooze and slime . . ."

The age of dinosaurs has come back. We saw hundreds of the monsters on a recent motor trip. So tall they were that they obscured the road's horizon. So wide they could scarcely be passed. So long that the business of passing them involved calculations and allowances out of all proportion to the ordinary. As they went by, the breath of them came near to tilting our small conveyance, and the sound of them was like the roar of mad waters. Their eyes, after dark, burned with a great light that blinded our own and beneath their monstrous feet the asphalt trembled.

Some people call them trucks and busses—but we call them dinosaurs. In the law of the matter, they grow taller and wider and longer each year. They have their noble and useful place in modern transportation, and we know it, but what about us poor ordinary motorists? Is there to be any place for us?

Certainly there is a limit to the size of trucks and busses which can safely and practically be permitted on highways over which private passenger cars go. To enforce limits where they are already fixed and to fix them where they do not yet obtain are coming to be imperatives of traffic. On the trip to which we refer after a long day of encountering the dreadful dinosaurs, it seemed that they grew larger and larger as night approached. And then, in the twilight, there loomed one unbelievably large, a veritable cloud of dinosaurs. When it came near enough he could see it for what it was. It was a truck with an elephant in it. Yes, an elephant. And there were we in our small Chevrolet, daring the road in competition. We marveled at our courage—and shuddered at what it had brought us to.

Talmudic Tales

By DAVID MORANTZ.

(Based upon the laws, legends and philosophy found in the Talmud, which contains the civil and canonical laws and traditions of the Jewish people, dating back as far as 3,000 years.)

"If one hears an unbecoming thing," said Rabbi Meir, "let him put his finger in his ear."

"Those who tempt fortune by gambling, may be compared to a wheel with two buckets attached; the full becomes empty and the empty becomes full."

"A wise man who is haughty or loses his temper, becomes a fool."

"Wait not until you fall sick to honor the physician."

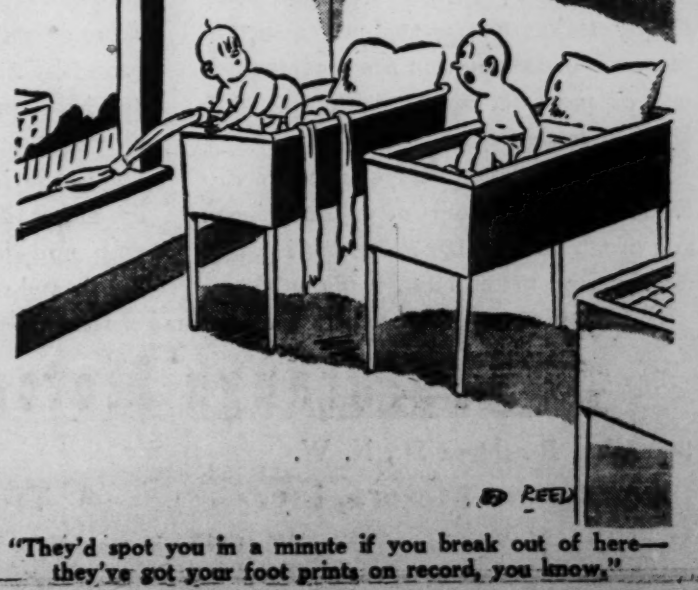

"False pride is fatal to the acquisition of knowledge. Be not above asking if you do not understand that which is explained to you."

"Pride is the sign of the worst poverty, which is ignorance."

You'd never guess it, but the word gas was coined by a Belgian chemist from the Greek khaos.

WORLD'S WINDOW

TEXAS WAY.

TYLER, Texas.—The lone-star banner was up on public buildings yesterday in commemoration of the time when a handful of Texas farmers beat back a Spanish army. I have had at least 10 citizens come up and tell me the story of that campaign. It grew as the telling. I am downright convinced by now that the Greeks at Thermopylae and Napoleon at Waterloo were just holding a picnic. At Tyler and environs, however, they did not seem to bother with the festival, except that the firemen's fanfare was giving a concert in the square. The poor fellows had worked themselves into a perspiration, but to no avail. Except a local cop, armed with the biggest revolver I've ever seen dangling from a hombre's hip, who was marking the runningboards of some motorcars with a stripe of blue chalk, I was about the only human within earshot of the concert. Where was the rest of mankind? Out in the fields. Engineers boring for oil had come upon a layer of dark-colored sand. Word of this had gone around and everybody had flocked out to see what would come up with the drillers in the next few hours. There may be a few more prospective millionaires in this world by evening.

Houston is the fastest growing city in America. Dallas is booming and has shops which would do credit to Fifth Avenue and the Rue de la Paix. They cannot build fast enough in Waco and Austin is a seething beehive. The whole state of Texas looks to be in the grip of a prosperity fever. If similar conditions prevailed up north, there'd be a madhouse. Texans take things easy. They make pleasure endure as long as possible.

Colors abundantly rich in that flat, Dutch-like landscape I traversed. Fields carpeted with flowers and rose gardens of amazing beauty especially around Tyler. Since an editor once told me that a newspaperman is a person with a seeing eye, and I lay pretense to being one, I cannot withhold the information, perhaps it is old news. But even so it deserves re-statement, that the girls of Texas are of a peculiar beauty. A type nowhere else encountered on earth. Slender, tall and fresh, most friendly withal, on the whole, which is, of course, a general southern characteristic. Somehow or other it struck me though that the femmes have a sartorial style of their own, too. Skirts are shorter. If that is the influence of the wild and woolly west making itself felt, I understand now why Horace Greeley was so insistently advising: "Go west, young man, go west!"

AMELIA EARHART TRIP TO BE RESUMED SOON

NEW YORK, April 26.—(P)—Amelia Earhart announced today that it would be several weeks before she would attempt to resume her round-the-world flight, interrupted by a crack-up in Honolulu. She said she expected to go to Burbank, Cal., next Saturday, and from there she will go to Oakland, Cal., where she will take off.

"My plane is nearly back in condition again," Miss Earhart said, "but I do not plan to resume my flight for several weeks. I need rest, and my week's stay here is part of the rest program I mapped out for myself."

PRESIDENT OF BRAZIL TO RETURN F.D.R.'S CALL

RIO DE JANEIRO, April 26.—(P)—The newspaper Diario da Noite reported today President Franklin D. Roosevelt had been informed that President Getulio Vargas, of Brazil, would visit him in June, returning the American executive's visit of last November.

It said President Roosevelt was informed in Washington by the Brazilian ambassador, Oswaldo Aranha, and reported that President Vargas would travel in a Brazilian warship escorted by a destroyer and five submarines recently bought from Italy.

Maid Wins Week's Photo Tip Prize With Story About Cat and Oven

Five-Dollar Award Will Be Mailed to Georgia Robson as Result of Telephone Call to Photo Tip Editor.

BY THE PHOTO TIP EDITOR.

When Mr. Tommie, Persian cat owned by Mrs. Earle Russell, of 128 Twelfth street, decided to spend three days in Mrs. Russell's oven and caused her to spend $6.30 to repair the walls and floor she had torn away in looking for him, he also brought a $5 check to Georgia Robson, a maid at 60 Twenty-sixth street.

Georgia heard about the adventures of Mr. Tommie and thought it would make a good story. She phoned the Photo Tip editor and her tip was declared winner of last week's contest.

So Mr. Tommie's escapade cost Mrs. Russell $6.30 for repairs to her home and netted Georgia Robson $5 for her phone call. Her check will be mailed today.

The Photo Tip editor was literally "swamped" with phone calls during the week. Atlantans are realizing how easy it is to pick up $5.

The contest is easy enough. If you see or hear anything you think interesting, call Walnut 6565 and ask for the Photo Tip editor. Tell him your story and you too may be a winner.

But, remember, your tip must be original. A few callers have the impression they are to give their opinions on pictures and stories appearing in The Constitution. You must "dig up" your own story or the hear of one. Then simply pick up the phone and tell the Photo Tip editor about it and you may be awarded $5 for your trouble. It's a lot of fun, to say nothing of the $5 you might win.

Good Morning
By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

Henry Van Dyke made a journey into the south one year in the latter part of April, and upon his return home, he wrote a friend a letter, appending some exquisite lines as a postscript. Here are one or two of them:

"Whence comes the magic? Listen, sweetheart, listen!
The mocking-bird is singing:
Spring is begun!
Hark, in his song no tremor of misgiving!
All of his heart he pours into his lay,—
Love, love, love, and pure delight of living!
Winter is forgotten: here's a happy day!"

And surely we may all agree with these lulling lines of the Princeton poet, who now sings a sweeter song in the land of endless spring, joining his praise with Frank L. Stanton and Sidney Lanier and every other lover of the beautiful as they stroll through the lovely Fields of Eden.

Few of us can write poetry, but all of us can appreciate pages of nature's revealing message of life—God's gift of springtime. These April days have quickened the faith that sings a new song—a song of hope that the world cannot give nor take away.

Every garden speaks to us of God. He planted the first garden. It was in a garden that the Son of God poured out His soul in agony for man. It was in Joseph's garden that his body lay three days. It will be in a garden that all trusting hearts shall spend eternity.

Margaret Sanster has given us these expressive lines—one of the many treasured songs of spring:

"When I have glimpsed an orchard dressed in wonder Beneath the magic of an April sky,
When I have seen blue violets growing under Last season's leaves, when soft winds hurry by—
Then I feel youth renewed, old hopes are brightened
By newer hopes and lost ideals awake;
And I forget that souls were ever frightened,
And I forget that hearts could ever break."

WILLBANKS RITES SCHEDULED TODAY

Victim of Auto Accident Will Be Buried at College Park.

Final rites for C. L. Willbanks Jr., 25, of 814 South Main street, College Park, who died Sunday night at Grady hospital of injuries suffered Saturday morning in an automobile crash on the Roosevelt highway, will be held at 11 o'clock this morning at the Second Baptist church, College Park, with the Rev. Toombs McGaughey officiating, assisted by the Rev. Y. A. Brown. Burial will be in College Park cemetery, under the direction of A. C. Humberly & Sons.

Another victim of the crash, Howard F. Maddox, of 820 East Harvard avenue, College Park, was killed instantly. Horace Simpson, also of College Park, a third passenger of the car, was admitted to Grady hospital for treatment of injuries and was released from the hospital yesterday afternoon.

HARVEY E. FELLOWS DIES IN HOSPITAL

Prominent Lumberman Had Lived in Decatur for Past Year.

Harvey Eugene Fellows, 46, of 223 Kings highway, Decatur, prominent Georgia lumberman, died yesterday morning at a private hospital.

Born in Athens, Mr. Fellows formerly was affiliated with the R. L. Moss Manufacturing Company of that city. He later became manager of the LaGrange Lumber Company, holding the position for 15 years. He moved to Decatur about a year ago and was affiliated with the Decatur Lumber & Supply Co.

He is survived by his wife; two sons, Bobby Fellows and H. E. Fellows Jr.; his mother, Mrs. C. S. Fellows, of Athens; three brothers, G. R. Fellows, of Stevenson, Ala.; C. S. Fellows, of Atlanta, and Paul B. Fellows, of Lake City, Fla.; and three sisters, Mrs. O. T. Smith, of Charlotte, N. C.; Mrs. Grace McLain, of Athens, and Mrs. Howard Wallace, of Atlanta.

Funeral plans will be announced by A. S. Turner.

TRIAL AWAITS TURNER

AFTER SERVING TERM

Forrest Turner, notorious for his escapes from Georgia chain gangs, will face trial for the alleged hold-up of a Constitution bank messenger after he has served a 12-year sentence on the Troup county gang.

The Fulton solicitor-general's office yesterday placed a "hold order" for Ewing with Troup officials after Turner was taken there from Fulton tower, where he has been kept awaiting trial for the Constitution holdup.

Ewing's latest escape was from Spalding county and it was while he was free that the Fulton county robbery was committed.

We'll clean your Rugs

as they were never cleaned before!

Pass your hand over a rug after being cleaned by the Shampay process and note the softness of the pile, absence of dirt, brilliancy of colors.

Expert RUG CLEANING

Rug cleaning, as done by members of the Gold Shield group, is a thing apart, the last word, so to speak, in efficiency, thoroughness and life-preserving. Coincidentally rug cleaning, properly done, is not the work of a novice. It requires knowledge of rugs—plus skill—plus special equipment. Hand washing is as obsolete as beating with a stick.

Rug Cleaning at Its Very Best

The modern "Shampay" method is thorough because it gets the dirt—and does not injure the pile, base stiffening, or colors. The Shampay machine is a wizard.

Those in the know, know the above to be true. There are only a few, very few, Shampay rug cleaning machines in the United States and one of these is owned by members of the Gold Shield group. The only one of its kind in Atlanta.

This process is so gentle and thorough it may be likened to shampooing the hair.

Features which make the Shampay machine most effective are—all parts of the rug, regardless of size, pass through rows of brushes with gently even pressure, shampooing the pile of the rug in the same direction it is woven.

Besides removing all soil without injury this process also removes moth eggs as it cleans. Thus no part of the rug is subjected to unevenness of pressure as is bound to occur with old-fashion hand cleaning.

Upon arrival at the plant, rugs are carefully inspected, loose dirt blown off by controlled air currents, then onto the large Shampay revolving cylinder where with specially prepared soaps they are thoroughly cleaned. Afterwards, they are given a quick rinsing. At no time are the rugs water-soaked. Original base sizing unaffected.

Drying is done while flat, in warm air-conditioned rooms, unexposed to sunlight which might fade delicate colors. Protected also from dust, lint and dirt.

The Gold Shield Rug Department is completely equipped for maintenance service. Tears can be mended, new fringe can be put on, and a highly skilled Armenian is employed to do reweaving on Oriental rugs.

Now is the logical time to have your rugs cleaned—as they were never cleaned before—at no greater cost to you than other methods not so thorough.

Phone one of the Gold Shield members to come for your rugs. If you want advice about detail or cost estimate, an expert rug man will call at your home.

FIVE PEOPLE INJURED IN TWO ACCIDENTS ON PONCE DE LEON

Car Crashes Pole Beyond Underpass; Another Hits Farm Truck.

Five persons were injured, one seriously, in two automobile accidents yesterday.

W. M. Riley, Decatur druggist, received a broken hip and possibly other injuries when the car he was driving crashed into a telephone pole on Ponce de Leon avenue near the Seaboard underpass after striking another car that had stopped to avoid a tree felled on the road by convicts.

Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Cain, of Auburn, Ga., occupants of the other machine, were not seriously injured. Mrs. Cain was taken to a hospital where she was treated for bruises and lacerations.

Cain's car, witnesses said, was headed toward Atlanta and was signaled to a stop by a convict guard as a felled tree came down.

Riley was rushed to the United States base hospital after the collision. No cases were made against either driver.

Mrs. W. M. Balch, of 947 Rose-dale road, and her son, Billy, were treated at Emory University hospital for cuts and bruises when the car in which they were riding struck a truck driven by F. E. McReady, of Mile Bright farm, at Ponce de Leon and Clifton road. McReady was also taken to the hospital and was dismissed after being treated for bruises.

Decatur Druggist Injured in Crash on Ponce de Leon

W. M. Riley, Decatur druggist, was seriously injured yesterday when his car collided with a machine driven by F. W. Cain, of Auburn, Ga., and then crashed into a telephone pole on Ponce de Leon avenue near the Seaboard underpass. The pole, as the picture shows, was almost knocked down by the impact.

partly in the road. Dr. Riley's car, following closely behind, swerved to the left, sideswiped the Cain auto and then ran into the post. The pole was snapped by the impact and the car badly damaged.

Riley was rushed to the United States base hospital after the collision. No cases were made against either driver.

Mrs. W. M. Balch, of 947 Rose-dale road, and her son, Billy, were treated at Emory University hospital for cuts and bruises when the car in which they were riding struck a truck driven by F. E. McReady, of Mile Bright farm, at Ponce de Leon and Clifton road. McReady was also taken to the hospital and was dismissed after being treated for bruises.

FLESH TESTS USED IN DENHARDT CASE

had never seen a similar test made. Dr. A. J. Miller, of the University of Louisville, testified that when he examined the sections of skin taken from Mrs. Taylor's body he did not find any powder marks and only two particles of lead inside the wound.

Dr. Miller said also the sections of flesh showed no evidence of ballooning as was customary in wounds where the gun was held pressed against the flesh. Previously Dr. Walsh had said there was slight evidence of ballooning.

Testimony Fought.

Judge Marshall took under advisement a defense motion to strike from the record testimony of Roy Garr and Sheriff Walter Briggs, of Oldham county, concerning heel marks at the spot where Mrs. Taylor's body was found. Apparently the prosecution sought to establish that Denhardt struggled with his fiancée there.

A powder company expert showed laboratory pictures of the action of bullets fired from the general's gun. Erwin showed a series of six negatives made during the gun test and under cross-examination said a seventh had been taken. This was not used by the state.

After the noon recess, he produced the negative. It was placed in the record.

Mola indicated in radiocasts that he was willing to accept their terms if they eliminate all Communists.

LOYALISTS SCORE THREE SEA VICTORIES.

VALENCIA, Spain, April 26.—(AP)—The Spanish government tonight listed three decisive victories in its first major offensive at sea against the insurgent navy of General Francisco Franco.

The government: Caused heavy damage to insurgent strongholds along the southern coast in a raiding cruise from Friday to Monday. Shot down one insurgent warplane and routed two torpedo boats in a short-lived battle outside Malaga harbor.

Forced the cruisers Canarias and Baleares to retire under fire from the government cruiser Sanchez Barcáiztegui in a clash near Cartagena, despite the presence of a German warship which allegedly signaled details of the government cruiser's movement to the enemy.

SHOWS REACH CITY FOR LEGION CARNIVAL

'Royal American' Organization Unloads at Hapeville for 11-Day Stay.

What is said to be the largest portable show organization in the world arrived in Atlanta last night. There are 1,200 performers, artists, workmen and officials in the organization, it is said, and they are here to take part in the American Legion Post No. 1 "spring festival" on a new show ground opposite the Candler airport, beginning Wednesday and to continue 11 days.

The midway for that event will be provided by the Royal American Shows, who for two seasons have presented the midway at the Southeastern Fair in Lakewood park.

Three show trains, aggregating 62 double-length all-steel railway cars, comprise the portable "world's fair on wheels." The trains were moved to Hapeville and were unloaded by day-light. More than 300 show wagons are transported on the train. Today a city of tented attractions, riding devices, special features and concessions will be erected on the show grounds.

Post No. 1 will have full charge of the festival which is designed to raise funds for special purposes of the American Legion.

ated that more than 3,000 invitations had been issued for the affair.

Purvis came here from San Francisco, where he is practicing law, April 19, to aid Miss Jarratt in final preparations for the marriage. They attended innumerable social functions together during the Fiesta De San Jacinto.

A dinner-dance was to be given for the couple by Dr. James Nixon tonight. It was called off at the last moment.

Miss Jarratt could not be reached for a statement. A spokesman for the family said:

"Mrs. Devereaux Jarratt, Miss Jarratt's mother, announces to the press that the wedding of her daughter to Mr. Melvin Purvis has been postponed indefinitely. Miss Jarratt cannot be reached and has no statement to make."

Friends of Purvis, here to attend the wedding, declined to make a statement for him.

"Sorry, old man," one said. "But Mr. Purvis will have to make a statement he cares to make." Purvis presumably left San Antonio incognito. None of the air services would admit that he had bought a ticket.

Another friend of Purvis said that his father was ill in North Carolina and that Purvis had to leave without notice.

The shift in control to these new figures in rail finance constitutes a highlight in the history of American railroading.

The death of both Van Sweringen brothers since the Ball purchase brought a complete change in the plans of the Muncie capitalist. The brothers were given an option to buy back the stocks and bonds when they were able.

Trustees of the Van Sweringen estate have sought to prevent sale of the Midamerica holdings, but the buyers said they felt there was no legal basis for such action.

Two-Day Annual Sessions End as Macon Man Succeeds Holzman.

S. L. Orr, of Macon, was named president of the Georgia Retail Jewelers' Association as the organization's annual convention closed last night after a two-day session. Mr. Orr succeeds Lawrence Holzman, of Atlanta.

Armand Maier Jr., of Atlanta, was named vice president, to succeed William Burdelle, of Augusta. Macon Brock, of Rome, was named secretary-treasurer, succeeding Dabney Hardy, also of Rome.

Approximately 100 retail jewelers from over the state were registered for the sessions.

The group heard addresses by Howard Carpenter, president of National Wholesale Jewelers' Association; Pierpont Noyes, well-known jeweler and author of the recent biography, "My Father's House"; Harry Morrill, Atlanta advertising man, and Alvin Mag-nan, of Tampa, Fla., regional vice president of the association.

Monday's business sessions were concluded at 5:30 o'clock. Following this, the group attended a banquet and dinner dance at the hotel.

Montana, said today the senate committee investigating rail financing would study the sale of securities controlling the vast Van Sweringen rail empire.

Wheeler said: "That is a typical example of what can be done with holding companies. Billions of dollars worth of property can be tossed around for a few million dollars. It's absolutely wrong. We should not have holding companies, controlling the economic destinies of millions."

ACT TO POOL ARMS OF ITALY, GERMANY REPORTED AT ROME bering, No. 2 Nazi, Con-ers With Duce, Who May See Hitler.

ROME, April 26.—(UP)—Diplomats believed tonight that a military alliance between Europe's un-fisted dictators—Adolph Hitler and Benito Mussolini—may be the making.

The groundwork, they said, was done today at a three-hour conference between the Italian chief

Four-Legged Chick Is Hatched at Menlo

SUMMERVILLE, Ga., April 26.—A four-legged chicken, hatched recently, is owned by Carlton L. Tucker, of Menlo, near here.

Tucker reports the chicken seems normal in every way except that it has four legs. It walks on two and carries the other two behind it, as does a person walking with hands behind the back.

and Colonel General Hermann Goering, Nazi "crown prince."

Such an alliance, pooling the war strength of Italy and Germany, would be one of the most menacing in world history and would be a near match for the allied might of Soviet Russia and France.

Goering's visit to Mussolini at Venice palace was one of many
"tangible signs" that negotiations between the two totalitarian powers are reaching far beyond the scope of the Italo-German friendships accord of last July 11.

Goering, ostensibly in Italy on a "holiday visit," talked with Mussolini and the latter's son-in-law, Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister.

The conversation included the situation in Spain, where both Mussolini and Hitler have committed themselves to a Fascist victory for the Rebels.

A week from today Constantin von Neurath, Nazi foreign minister, will arrive in Rome, and on May 9 Lieutenant General Werner von Blomberg, Hitler's minister of war, will follow. It was reported Goering arranged for Il Duce to go to Germany for a conference with Hitler.

HERNDON DECISION IS VOIDED BY COURT

sue was a matter of controversy
after the opinion had been read.
Delivering the majority opinion for himself, Chief Justice Hughes and Associate Justices Stone, Brandeis and Cardozo, Justice
Roberts repeatedly asserted no proof had been adduced that Herndon had read the literature in question, or had advocated the armed overthrow of the government.

"The statute as construed and applied," said Roberts, "amounts merely to a dragnet which may enmesh anyone who agitates for a change of government if a jury can be persuaded that he ought to have foreseen his words would have some effect in the future conduct of others."

"No reasonably ascertainable standard of guilt is prescribed. So vague and indeterminate are the boundaries thus set to the freedom of speech and assembly that the law necessarily violates the guarantees of liberty embodied in the fourteenth amendment."

Minority Opinion.
Associate Justice Van Devanter delivered the minority opinion for himself, and Associate Justices McReynolds, Butler and Sutherland. Noting that the literature in question was directed to the negro masses of the south, the justice said:

"The purpose and probable effect of such literature when under consideration in a prosecution like that against Herndon, are to be tested and determined with appropriate regard to the capacity and circumstances of those who are sought to be influence," said Van Devanter.

"In this instance the literature is largely directed to a people whose past and present circumstances would lead them to give unusual credence to its inflaming and inciting features."

He disagreed with the majority on the question of an ascertainable standard of guilt, and held that the only question to be decided was whether Herndon intended to incite a revolution. He believed that to have been proved, and noted that a long line of court decisions had affirmed the right of states to deal with such situations.

Carries Death Penalty.

The statute in question was aimed at the suppression of insurrection against the state. It carries a maximum penalty of death.
Herndon was convicted in 1932.
Two appeals to the state supreme court failed.

Once before he appealed to the supreme court, but the case was remanded because not presented in the proper form. He appealed again. Meanwhile, he has been at liberty, under $7,000 bail, posted by the International Labor Defense.

In other decisions today the court held constitutional:
An Alabama law imposing a franchise tax for the privilege of doing business within the state.

A Maine statute regulating the cosmetic industry.

A Minnesota property tax on shares in Montana and North Dakota banks owned by the First Bank Stock Corporation of Minneapolis. The latter contended that such a tax could be validly imposed only by the state in which the banks were incorporated.

A South Carolina law requiring that fertilizer manufacturers attach to each bag a tag showing the ingredients.

HERNDON CONVICTED IN FULTON COURT IN 1932

Angelo Herndon's five-year fight to avoid serving an 18-to-20-year sentence for attempting to incite insurrection was ended yesterday in the five-to-four decision of the United States supreme court, which set aside his conviction in the Fulton courts.

Herndon is an admitted Communist party organizer and it was for his alleged activities in behalf of Communism that he was arrested by investigators of Solicitor General John A. Boykin's staff early in 1932. He was charged with inciting to insurrection and possessing literature which called for setting up a "black belt republic" throughout the south.

In 1932 Herndon was convicted under the Georgia anti-sedition law, which had been put on the state's statute books in 1871, during the post-war reconstruction days. The jury found him guilty and the judge pronounced sentence of from 18 to 20 years upon him.
The law itself provides death as the maximum penalty.

Various Appeals.

Herndon, backed by the International Labor Defense, appealed the conviction in Fulton superior court but the Georgia supreme court upheld the lower court. Then the supreme court of the United States refused to revise the case because it was improperly presented.

Back in the lower courts through an appeal for new trial, Herndon won temporary victory a year ago when Judge Hugh M. Dorsey, former Governor of Georgia, ruled that, in his opinion, the anti-sedition law was unconstitutional because it was too vague. But the state supreme court reversed
Judge Dorsey and back to the United States supreme court Herndon went, this time with Whitney

North Seymour, former assistant United States attorney general, as his counsel. Seymour aided in representing Herndon before Judge Dorsey also.

Contentions of Appeal.

Herndon's lawyer contended before the highest court that the Georgia law violated Herndon's right to free speech, free press and free assemblage and that there was no evidence Herndon had advocated violence or any unlawful act.

J. Walter LeCraw, assistant solicitor general of Fulton county, charged Herndon's act did tend to bring about violence in the overthrow of the established government.

LeCraw said yesterday he would not know until he had read the supreme court decision in full whether the Georgia law itself was declared unconstitutional, or whether the court merely held that Herndon's conviction under the law was unconstitutional.

The matter was being debated in Washington.

said at his office the campaign would be "short and snappy."

"The Governor plans to make a series of speeches over the radio and may make two or three addresses over the state," Downing Mugrove, his executive secretary, said. "The issues are well defined and we believe the people already thoroughly understand them and are ready to vote overwhelmingly for the amendments."

Injunction Sought.
S. E. Vandiver, of Lavonia, and other citizens of Franklin county have petitioned Judge Berry T.

Moseley, of the Franklin superior court, to enjoin the election on the ground the assembly is not authorized to call for a vote on constitutional amendments at any time except in the general elections in November of even numbered years. Judge Moseley has set the petition for a hearing on May 8, the day the Rivers drive is scheduled to open.

In announcing the meeting,
Chairman Reid said the chairmen of all county Democratic executive committees would be invited to the May 8 meeting and that Mrs. Virginia Polhill Price, of Louisville, the Democratic national committeewoman, would be a prominent participant in the session.

Meanwhile there was displayed a wide interest in the forthcoming election. County ordinaries reported that already they have received many requests for absentee ballots which are furnished voters who cannot be at home on election day.

These ballots are now being printed. Under the law any voter who desires to vote an absentee ballot must ask it from his ordinary at least 30 days before the election. Ordinaries are not allowed to accept requests for the June 8 vote after May 9.

CHAMBER SPEAKER CALLS UPON LABOR TO 'OBEY THE LAW'

Chester Challenges Businessmen To Consider National Welfare.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP) Chairman Colby M. Chester, of the National Association of Manufacturers, called upon labor today to bear a share of responsibility for amicable relationships in industry.

Present conditions, he said at the 25th anniversary meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, present twin challenges to the businessman "to put human relations and national welfare ahead of every other consideration" and to labor "to obey the law and confine its demands to those things for which it is prepared to accept full and sober responsibility."

Ernest G. Draper, assistant secretary of commerce, suggested that an act patterned on the principles of the railway mediation act, but adapted for use by industrial companies, might bring more

Coming or Going? Tadpoles in Doubt

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP)—Tadpoles with a head on each end can now be produced. Dr. Oscar E. Schotte, of Amherst College, said today. He reported to the National Academy of Sciences that he created some of the strange creatures by grafting the eye cups of embryo frogs just underneath the skin of regenerating tails of large tadpoles.

The implanted eye cups "not only induced the neighboring tissues to differentiate into typical eye lenses but also induced in every case a complete differentiation of the surrounding cells," he declared.

This process continued until other organs not connected with the eyes grew. Ear sacs and mouth cavities appeared.

satisfactory adjustment of labor disputes.

"We need a give-and-take attitude in which the chief aim always to be held in view by both sides, is fair play," he added.

WAYMAN BOYLES FINAL RITES TODAY

Sports Promoter Was Former Employee of The Constitution.

Final rites for Wayman Boyles, 36, prominent Atlanta sports promoter, who died Sunday at a private hospital, will be held at 10 o'clock this morning at Spring Hill, with the Rev. Arnold Smith officiating. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

Mr. Boyles was born in Atlanta and started his career as newspaper worker here, working for a time on The Constitution. He later became affiliated with the promotion department of the Southeastern Fair Association, finally becoming director of public relations.

After several years with the fair association he became director of promotion and publicity for the Lucky Teeter automobile driving show. At the time of his last illness, Mr. Boyles was preparing to begin his annual tour with the Teeter show.

It would take nearly 20 tons of steel to equip a 150-acre grain and dairy farm with full equipment and implements of steel, according to one estimate.

WIVES OF SOLONS HURT ON BAY TRIP

Congressmen Spend Sleepless Night on Storm-Tossed Chesapeake Steamer.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP) Scores of congressmen caught up tonight on the sleep they lost in the bounding beds of a storm-tossed Chesapeake bay steamer last night.

They were members of a party which went on a week-end tour of the Virginia peninsula and were caught, voyaging homeward, in one of the worst gales that bay navigators could remember.

At least two persons, Mrs. Andrew J. May, wife of the representative from Kentucky, and Mrs. Ernest Lundeen, wife of the senator from Minnesota, received minor hurts.

The 2,100-ton ship was buffeted by the gale for four hours, from the time it left Old Point Comfort, Va., until it reached the quieter waters of the Potomac. Among the best sailors on board was Vice President Garner, who retired at 9 o'clock and slept soundly.

MARIAN SNOWDEN REED DIVORCED, MARRIED

RENO, Nev., April 26.—(AP)—Marian Snowden Reed, attractive young heiress to an oil fortune and former wife of Prince Girolamo Rospigliosi, of Italy, was married to Bradley Sherman Dresser, of New York city, today shortly after she had obtained a divorce from her second husband, Louis F. Reed junior.

District Judge Currier performed the marriage at the Washoe county courthouse.

MOTHER TESTIFIES IN SAYLOR DEFENSE

Former Pugilist's Second Trial in Killing of Brother Is Opened.

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., April 26. Torn between loyalty to the memory of a murdered son and love for one accused, Mrs. Addie B. Saylor, once proud chataleine of the ancestral home near Adairsville, Barnsley Gardens, today chose the latter and took the stand in defense of Preston Saylor, accused of the murder of his brother Harry.

Today marked the beginning of the second trial for Saylor, a former pugilist known as K. O. Dugan. He was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment last November, but was granted a new trial.

Mrs. Saylor, Preston's aging mother, told on the stand of bickering between Harry and Preston, prior to the slaying in an upper room of the castle-like Barnesley Gardens.

happen on that fateful morning she said in a faltering voice, "as when I saw Preston start up the stairs, which Harry had climbed before him, I started a rush to rescue Harry, but it was too late."

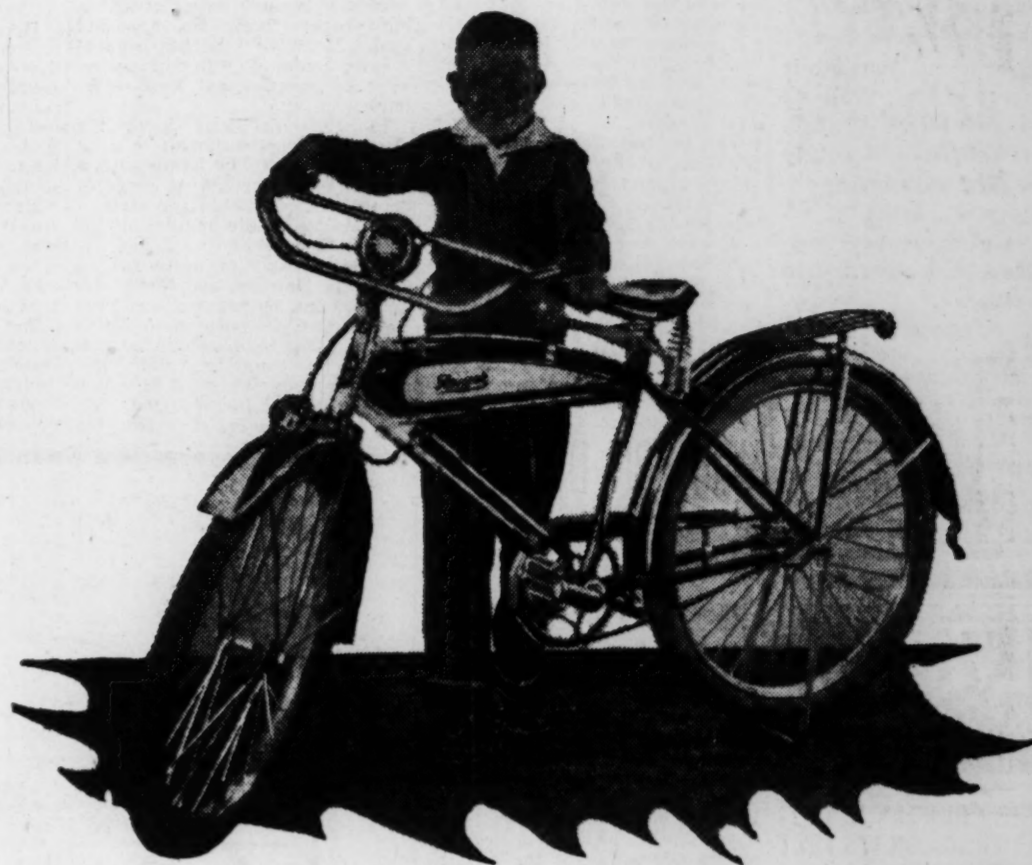

The trial, which began in mid-afternoon in Bartow county superior court, is expected to be completed shortly after noon tomorrow.

W. C. McAbee Gets a Ranger BICYCLE Absolutely FREE

Young Mister McAbee lives in Experiment, Ga. He is 8 years of age and is in the second grade at the Kincaid School. Billy, as he is affectionately known, said this was the easiest job he ever expected to do to receive such a wonderful prize. It took him only one week to get his bicycle after filling in the Enrollment Blank.

You, Too, Can Have One FREE

The Atlanta Constitution Makes It Possible For Every Boy and Girl, Man or Woman to Have One of These Handsome Bicycles Fully Equipped, Without One Cent of Cost. Every Bicycle Given Is Exactly As Pictured.

The Ace for Girls is exactly like the Zephyr except for drop bar frame (which eliminates tool tank), smaller pedals and rear wheel skirt guard.

Finest Ranger Bicycles Made

For forty years the Ranger has been known as the outstanding bicycle of America—famous for quality, performance, looks, materials and workmanship. The Atlanta Constitution has selected the $55.00 Ranger "Zephyr" model for boys, the Ace for girls, the highest grade machines made by the Mead Cycle Co. The Ranger you earn will be completely equipped, all ready for you to ride. Every bicycle is guaranteed for five years. Here are a few of the Ranger features, many of them to be had only on the Ranger:

The Ranger Zephyr is fully streamlined, with roomy tool tank to hold batteries, tools, etc. It is finished in bright Ranger golden brown and white, with black hairline stripes. Full balloon tires with inner tubes are included. Rims are enameled to prevent rusting, and all other bright parts are chrome plated.

The new Delta Silveray bullet design Electric Lamp is mounted on the front fender, and Delta Electric Horn, Rear Carrier, Parking Stand, Red Danger Signal, Sprocket and Chain Guard, Strong Front and Rear Fenders, Moulded Live Rubber Hand Grips and Tools complete its equipment.

The saddle is genuine grain leather over thick sponge rubber. Lobdell rims, the best and strongest made, are standard equipment.

Ku Klux Klan Turns Out in Full Regalia for Services

Members of the Ku Klux Klan, attired in full regalia, formed a semi-circular background of white for Confederate veterans who were guests of honor yesterday afternoon at Confederate Memorial Day exercises at Oakland cemetery. A five-mile-long parade marched from Peachtree and Baker streets through town and out to the cemetery for the ceremonies.

proper intervals between units on the highway. Messages also were exchanged between the autogiro and ground crews along the way as a test of this type of communication.

The machines were negotiated in traffic almost with the same ease as automobiles. Each tank carries a siren, headlights, tail lights and brake lights.

Each of the new tanks carries a crew of four men, the operator and three gunners.

Arriving back at Fort Benning, the tanks will take part in a gigantic sham battle Friday morning.

vocation by Dr. Louie D. Newton and several musical features. He outlined the history of the War Between the States, and praised the valor and patriotism of the men of the south.

"The south's men of the sixties," the speaker said, "deserve as much or more praise for their service to the nation in the trying days of reconstruction as for their valiant deeds during the actual conflict."

Judge Humphries spoke from a stand on the site of the marble shaft at Oakland erected to the memory of Atlanta's Confederate dead. Special seats directly before him held the handful of Fulton county's living veterans able to attend the ceremonies.

Other exercises in honor of the occasion were held at Techwood Homes playground, where flag-raising ceremonies followed the presentation of three American flags.

Judge Luther Z. Rosser made the presentation to the Techwood Boy Scout troop and Girls' Patrol. The address of acceptance was made by Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech and chairman of the Techwood advisory committee. The occasion also marked the formal dedication of the newly completed playground project.

Elsewhere in the state similar memorial exercises were held, as they were in Florida, Alabama, and Mississippi. The remaining southern states have designated dates later in the year for the annual celebration as follows: Kentucky and North Carolina, May 10; Virginia, May 30; Tennessee and South Carolina, June 3.

Senator George Speaks.
Among the features of Georgia's activities for the date were addresses by United States Senator Walter F. George at Moultrie and Cordele; Charles Walker, Macon attorney, at Milledgeville; Judge John B. Guerry of the state court of appeals, at Fayetteville; and the Rev. Ed. F. Cook, at Macon.

The Rev. Pierce Harris, of Jacksonville, Fla., was the day's speaker at Columbus. Roy V. Harris, of Augusta, speaker of the Georgia house, spoke at Monroe, and John Spivey, president of the state senate, addressed a Statesboro audience.

At LaGrange, exercises sponsored by the United Daughters of the Confederacy featured an address by J. Richmond Bowdon, Atlanta attorney, while the Rev. R. Lee Scott, of Valdosta, spoke at Savannah. Mrs. Oscar McKenzie, of Montezuma, was principal speaker at Augusta, and another woman speaker, Mrs. Bernice B. McCollier, of Milledgeville, addressed an audience at Sparta.

Neeley Peacock, of Albany, spoke at exercises in that city, and the Rev. J. Foster Young conducted memorial services at Washington. Abbeville held its services on Sunday, with the Rev. H. J.

Johnson and the Rev. Charles L. Bass as principal speakers, while at Vienna Mrs. R. L. Newby delivered the main address.

T. W. Reed, registrar of the University of Georgia in Athens, was the speaker at Marietta's exercises, and Dr. Heywood Pierce, of Brenau College and Emory University, delivered the address of the day at Griffin.

At Greensboro, Carter S. Baldwin, of Madison, Ocmulgee circuit solicitor, delivered the principal address of the day, and another solicitor, Olin T. Flournoy, of Polk city court, spoke at Cedartown's exercises. McKenzie Dallas was the speaker at Thomaston.

Ralph Newton, superintendent of Waycross city schools, was that city's principal speaker. Rome residents made "flower pilgrimages" to the Confederate section of the cemetery, where members of the U. D. C. were on hand to supervise the placing of flowers. J. H. Fleming and J. L. Wheelis, Elbert county's only surviving Confederate veterans, were special guests at a luncheon, preceded by Memorial Day exercises at which the Rev. Hoke Shirley spoke. Captain J. T. Dennis Jr., master of ceremonies, announced military medals of valor will be presented to H. P. Hunter and H. S. Hunter, father and son, who fought in the World War.

2,000 ARE PRESENT AT DECATUR SERVICES
At Decatur nearly 2,000 citizens joined in impressive ceremonies at the Confederate monument on Courthouse square. The monument, which recently was moved from the street onto the courthouse lawn, was rededicated in the exercises led by Dr. Louie D. Newton, as orator of the Decatur celebration.

Mayor Scott Candler, of Decatur, introduced Dr. Newton. The Decatur Boys' High school R. O. T. C. band played patriotic airs and the Agnes Scott College Glee Club sang.

A group of Decatur women, dressed in costumes of the sixties and representing characters in Margaret Mitchell's "Gone With the Wind," occupied the platform during the ceremonies.

A Confederate flag was hoisted on the courthouse flag pole during the exercises. The flag was lowered at the close of the ceremonies and an American flag was raised as a symbol of a unified nation.

Harold Byrd Post No. 66, American Legion, gave a dance for young people of Decatur last night at the Legion hall on East Courthouse square as a close to the day's observance.

There's nothing like GAS for ROASTING

Gas gives you the oven ventilation which produces crisp, juicy roasts. Excess moisture is allowed to escape, preventing that flat "steamed" flavor.

BAKING

Baking requires an unlimited range of oven temperatures evenly distributed. That's why Gas assures light, evenly browned cakes, pies and breads.

FRYING

Perfect, speedy frying requires instant high heat—even spread of heat under the skillet—numberless heat variations. Gas gives them all!

BOILING

Faster! Gas brings foods to a boil in 2-3 or less the time of other fuels. Because it is more flexible, it gives you the exact degree of heat you need.

BROILING

Gas gives you the intense heat needed to brown meats so fast that loss of juices is prevented. Full flavor is saved.

NEW CALHOUN CHURCH WILL HONOR ATLANTAN

CALHOUN, Ga., April 26.—Work will be started Wednesday on a new interdenominational church here, to be known as the Nellie Peters chapel, for which ground was broken at special exercises held Sunday.

The chapel will be named in honor of the late Mrs. Nellie Peters Black, of Atlanta, who formerly lived in Calhoun. It will be built on land contributed by the heirs of the late Richard Peters, who bought the acreage, once known as the Peters farm, more than 85 years ago.

Atlanta attending the exercises included Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Peters Black, Miss Margaretta Black and Mrs. John Fitten MacDougall.

Chase Osborn Feted By Sigma Chi Chapter

Chase Osborn, world traveler, writer, iron ore hunter, miner, labor arbitrator and former governor of Michigan, came through with another demonstration of his versatility here last night by leading some 200 Sigma Chi's in a bit of deep-throated singing, including the number concerning the famous sweetheart.

Mr. Osborn was guest of honor at a buffet supper and a smoker given at the Georgia Tech Sigma Chi Chapter house on Spring street. Members of the Tech and Emory University chapters and Sigma Chi alumni were hosts.

Floored of innumerable degrees and honors, Mr. Osborn carried away with him last night a new and highly distinctive dignity. He was named by the assembly the patron saint of Sigma Chi in the southeast.

He accepted the honor with another song and another Swiss cheese sandwich, and then returned to his room, where he maintains his summer home, "Possum Poke in Possum Land."

Mr. Osborn will return today to North county, Georgia, where he maintains his summer home, "Possum Poke in Possum Land."

Prize Winning Legs Severed by Train

HACKENSACK, N. J., April 26.—(UP)—Jennie Simpson, 18, who won a trophy for the "most beautiful legs" in a beauty contest here, lost her balance today as she attempted to board a moving train, and fell between the cars.

The wheels severed both legs.

The State Public Service Authority and the PWA signed last week.

The agreement, however, was expected to have only a minor bearing on the case unless the plaintiffs take exceptions to changes termed "minor."

The changes, it was said, affected neither the plans nor the estimated cost of the proposed project. The principal change was the method for repayment of the $20,000,000 loan portion of the PWA allotment. The authority would be allowed to issue revenue bonds.

Commander H. B. Bragg, Charleston navy yard engineer, testified the construction would benefit navigation on the Cooper river and would improve Charleston harbor.

BUFORD, Ga., April 26.—(P)—The Louisiana Jane—a yacht belonging to Bona Allen, Buford shoe manufacturer—will become the presidential yacht of the Dominican republic tomorrow.

Allen announced sale of the boat today, and said delivery will be made tomorrow at Miami, Fla., where it is docked. The purchase price was not disclosed.

The yacht is 145 feet long, of steel construction, and with a 20-foot beam. It weighs 220 tons, draws nine feet of water, carries a crew of 15 and has accommodations for eight passengers. It has Diesel motor power.

The ship was bought for the republic by Colonel C. A. McLaughlin.

PRESIDENT AVERTS RAILWAY WALKOUT

agency board be appointed and the President quickly acceded.

The controversy between the I.L.A. and the Brotherhood centers around an inter-union fight for control of the freight handlers and the admission of negroes into their unions.

The Brotherhood rejects negroes, but claims to act as their representative in all negotiations. The I.L.A. accepts them in its membership.

Joseph P. Ryan, president of the I.L.A., challenged the brotherhood's claim to jurisdictional supervision over all freight handlers in the metropolitan area.

In the demands submitted to the railroads in the New York area last March, the brotherhood asked for a 20 cents per hour increase for all employees, elimination of the contract system, a day's pay for any part of a day's work, and two weeks' vacation with pay for all freight handlers.

The brotherhood threatened to strike unless these demands were granted, but the challenge of the I.L.A. complicated matters. The deadline was reached Saturday. A 48-hour truce was agreed upon, but the two organizations were no nearer a solution today than they were Saturday. They had arranged another 48 hours' truce just before the President took action.

Both Unions Satisfied.

Both Ryan and George O. Price, chairman of the brotherhood's committee, expressed satisfaction with the President's intervention.

Price said that "since the emergency board will have the power and the authority to investigate causes of dissatisfaction and recommend action, I think we can control the situation and prevent any interruption in commerce."

Ryan said he "felt sure the board will, upon investigation, find we do represent the freight handlers."

"I believe this will put a stop to Price's ridiculous statements," he said, "because he couldn't call a strike, because he hasn't the organization."

U. S. STEEL DROPS "COMPANY UNIONS"

PITTSBURGH, April 26.—(P)—The Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, largest United States steel subsidiary, notified its workers today that it would no longer recognize the employee representative plan.

Union leaders have referred to the plan as a "company union."

The company will:

1. Will discontinue any financial contributions to the plan.

2. Will not furnish any facilities for the election or other activities of the employee representatives under the plan.

3. Will not furnish any stenographic or other office service or facilities for the activities of the employees or representatives under the plan.

SHOE OPERATORS TALK TO CIO AGENT

LEWISTON, Maine, April 26.—(P)—Lewiston-Auburn shoe manufacturers related late today in their month-long refusal to meet representatives of the Committee for Industrial Organization, sponsors of a strike in 19 factories employing 6,400.

In what Federal Labor Conciliator J. Williams termed a "preliminary conference," Joseph Kovner, CIO attorney, met with operators' counsel in the office of Colonel George C. Webber, one of the latter group. No announcement was made.

MIDWEST SNOWSTORM IS BOON AND BANE

CHICAGO, April 26.—(P)—One of the worst April snowstorms in recent years proved both a boon and a bane to the midwest today.

The snowfall, drifted up to eight feet in northwestern Iowa, provided welcome moisture for important agricultural areas in the 1936 drought belt, but delayed spring planting, hampered traffic and crippled communication in several states.

The Northwestern Bell Telephone Company reported 1,000 wires were broken and 100 poles were toppled in Iowa's week-end storm. High winds damaged barns and killed some livestock. Motorists were stranded at Primghar.

Hundreds of poles were down and many trucks and cars were stalled in eastern South Dakota.

Snow plow crews and power linemen labored to restore normalcy to western Minnesota. More than 100 Crookston high school students, snowbound Sunday at Thief River Falls, returned to their homes.

Roads were blocked and communication disrupted in the northeastern section of Nebraska. Rain fell in Illinois, Missouri, Iowa, eastern Minnesota and Wisconsin.

PITTSBURGH GIRLS FOR FLOOD BATTLE

PITTSBURGH, April 26.—(P)—Murky waters of the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers spilled into Pittsburgh's "Golden Triangle" business area tonight while residents of this steel center prepared for a possible major flood.

More than 30 hours of continuous rainfall brought the city, with a population of 700,000, to grips with the worst April high-water threat in its history.

The rivers surged four feet over the 25-foot flood stage tonight and continued to rise slowly toward a predicted peak of 36 feet.

Weather Forecaster Brotsman revised his previous warning of a 35-foot stage late today as the downpour continued. Dark overhanging clouds presaged more rain.

Rainfall is General.

The rainfall was general over the vast 200-mile watershed from Johnstown, Pa., to Wheeling, W. Va.

Pittsburgh mobilized its man-made defenses against the power of the rivers. An awakened city was on guard to prevent, if possible, repetition of the terrific damage resulting from the 1936 St. Patrick's day flood when the waters rose to 46 feet and submerged half the billion-dollar "triangle" with its towering office buildings and department stores. That flood caused approximately $200,000,000 damage and took 58 lives in the region.

Barriers Erected.

Merchants in low-lying streets erected wooden flood gates and sand bag barriers and installed water pumps.

First advance of the rivers sent their waters over River avenue on the North side and at the 25-foot stage they covered the tip of the "triangle" at Water street and Liberty avenue.

While most of the city's business properties would escape serious damage in a 36-foot flood, the high water would paralyze some of the most important industrial plants in this steel center.

James & Laughlin steel corporation announced tonight the plate mill, five open hearth furnaces at its Ohio district plant and six open hearths in the south side works, both on the Monongahela, would be shut down by the high water.

Rain imperiled the lives of 40 crippled children when it washed thousands of tons of earth against the Sewickley Fresh Air Home for Crippled Children at nearby Fair Oaks.

SHERIFF AT HARLAN ACCUSED OF MISUSE OF OFFICIAL FUNDS

Kentucky Coal Operators Charged With 'Permitting' Speculation by Officer.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP) Chairman La Follette, of the senate civil liberties committee, accused a group of Kentucky coal operators today of "permitting" Sheriff Middleton, of Harlan county, to "build up his personal fortune by speculating with state and county tax money."

The operators were Middleton's official bondsmen and bankers, he asserted.

Witnesses have testified that the coal operators "suppressed" all labor unions for the past 14 years, largely through the use of special deputy sheriffs commissioned by Middleton and his predecessors.

Refuses to Answer.

La Follette made his charges a few minutes after the sheriff had refused to answer questions about his financial affairs. Investigators said income tax officials were in the hearing room.

The sheriff conceded that he had acquired $102,728 worth of real estate and securities since he took office in 1934, although his salary never amounted to more than $4,460 a year.

La Follette confronted him with bank records and his own reports. The senator said these documents indicated that Middleton had transferred $60,156 from official accounts to his personal account between 1934 and 1937.

ALABAMA'S LABOR AWAIT GOUGE TALK

AFL Southeastern Representative To Speak Today; CIO Union Seated.

ANNISTON, Ala., April 26.—(AP)—The arrival of George Gouge, southeastern representative of the American Federation of Labor, sent an undercurrent of expectancy flowing through sessions of Alabama Federation of Labor tonight.

Delegates believed what Gouge will tell the annual convention tomorrow will have great significance to the labor movement in Alabama and throughout the south.

Group caucuses met tonight in preparation for the election of federation officers Wednesday. Some convention committees were appointed today.

The first session today ran smoothly, with welcoming addresses and responses. Only a few members of unions affiliated with the Committee for Industrial Organization were present in Anniston, and one of these was seated at the convention.

S. E. Roper, of Sheffield, named temporary president, was in charge of today's meeting. He was selected to fill the place vacated yesterday by William Mitch, who withdrew from the federation because of American Federation of Labor opposition.

CONGRESS TO STUDY U. S. BUILDING HERE

Atlanta Delegation at Capital Is Pledged Careful Consideration of Project.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—An Atlanta delegation here for conferences on the proposed $3,000,000 federal building for Atlanta brought a statement from Representative Clifton A. Woodrum, chairman of the house appropriations committee, that he was "impressed with the merits" of the project.

Woodrum promised the group the committee would give careful consideration to the proposal when the time comes for recommending funds for new government structures.

Proposals are to erect the new building on Atlanta's old city hall site, to provide facilities for housing all government agencies located in the city now occupying space in privately-owned buildings.

In addition to Representative Robert Ramspeck, fifth district congressman, who accompanied them on their call on Woodrum, Atlantans in the group included W. Eugene Harrington, president; Walter Hendrix, vice president; and W. R. Ulrich, secretary, Atlanta Chamber of Commerce; C. F. Palmer, building operator, and Jesse Draper, real estate man.

NEGRO SLAIN, 2 HURT IN MYSTERY DISPUTE

Unexplained ill feeling last night brought death to one negro and injury to two others as police sought to untangle the cause of the disturbance.

Charlie Richardson, 40, operator of a shoe shine place at 277 Butler street, was shot and killed, according to police, by another negro, listed as Henry Bledsoe, of 304 Butler street. Bledsoe fled in Richardson's car, wrecked the car on Ivy street near Peachtree, and was slightly injured. Walter Hammond, employee of Richardson, was at Grady hospital inquiring about his "boss's" condition, when he was severely stabbed by a negro woman listed as Polly Petty, of a Randolph street address.

Bledsoe was arrested on charges of suspicion of murder and the woman was locked up on assault charges.

A STAR IS BORN

By WILLIAM A. WELLMAN—AND ROBERT CARSON

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE. Esther Blodgett, a movie-struck girl, has left her North Dakota home with money her sympathetic grandmother gave her out of her slender savings. On her very first day in Hollywood she catches a never-to-be-forgotten glimpse of her romantic idol, Norman Maine. Hoping to conserve her small finances, she takes a cheap room near the studios and prepares to look for work. Day after day goes by without a single chance to secure work at the studios. She is beginning to lose hope when she goes to Central Casting Office, looking for work. "Work," says the man in the office, "How long have you been in Hollywood?" NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT V.

More and more Norman Maine began traveling various avenues of escape, the most frequent of which led to the nearest bar. He would sincerely have given much to have been able to live the natural life of the average American citizen. If he had voiced this opinion it would have been laughed at as so much more publicity; so he kept quiet and hoped that he might some day find a person with whom he could just be himself—preferably without the whole country looking on.

That Anita Regis had succeeded in gaining his constant companionship was, if she had known the truth, no compliment to her charm and beauty. Actually, Maine found her clinging propensities to protection against the dozens of other twittering women unbearable. He took a secret joy in her frank contempt for his drunken moods. So she thought she could succeed in masking her superior attitude? Miserable actress!

At the moment when Norman Maine had helped Anita into her chair and was about to seat himself, the conductor walked on the stage, mounted the podium and turned to acknowledge the swelling crescendo of applause that had greeted his entrance.

The drink-clouded mind of the star sensed the familiar sound, and remembering his duty to the publicity office, he began to bow graciously right and left, and even clasped his hands over his head in democratic good fellowship.

Then the thought of the lady whom he was escorting. Leaning toward her, he whispered:

"Anita! Get up and bow; They're applauding."

Anita murdered him with a glance.

"Sit down, you fool!" she muttered through her teeth. "That's for the leader of the orchestra."

Good naturedly accepting his error, he sat down casually, but he missed his aim and went hurdling toward Anita, who helped him regain his balance.

There were faint titters from the neighboring boxes, and Esther felt a rush of pity for an idol who was thus placed in a ludicrous situation. Anita had turned aside to give her full attention to the music and was completely oblivious to the pantomime being enacted around her.

Meanwhile two men had stealthily approached the rear of the box and were trying to gain Maine's ear. One of them was focusing a camera, the other raised a bulb and reflector. They were newspaper photographers, following ing the greatest of the glamor boys as part of their appointed rounds. Maine had been photographed eating and sleeping, loving and fighting, reading the latest best seller and shaking hands with a girl who boasted an upsidown stomach. It had occurred to someone that the world had never seen him in the act of enjoying Beethoven's Fifth Symphony. So the cameraman tapped Maine softly on the shoulder and whispered:

"Put your arms around Miss Regis."

Both Maine and Anita turned, equally startled. Maine protested with good humor: "Otto this is the Hollywood Bow!"

"On, afraid of crowds, eh?" the cameraman sneered.

By now Maine was annoyed. He motioned the two men to leave the box and deliberately moved away from Anita. The cameraman had dealt with temperance before. He thought to infuriate the star in compliance. Although there were hundreds of pictures of Maine in the newspaper's files, he could not return to his office without that particular view of the Maine profile.

He might have explained that editors have a way of firing men who fall down on such an elementary assignment as getting a shot of the world's greatest lower gazing into the eyes of a blonde while surrounded by thousands of music lovers who are prosaically absorbing Chopin. But the intimations that Maine thought he was too big to bother with mere photographers.

"I don't want any pictures taken now," Maine expostulated.

"Well, suppose I take it anyway," the cameraman countered.

Maine had half risen from his seat. "In that case," he said, his voice rising in fury, "I'll shove that Brownie number two of yours down your throat."

The girl next to him tugged at his sleeves, knowing the Maine temper when aroused, and some what frightened at what might result from this altercation. Some forms of publicity were not to be wooed too ardently. She succeeded in pulling Maine back into his seat and her arm was still interlocked in his.

"All right, Joe," the cameraman ordered as he focused his camera. Joe lifted the reflector, the bulb popped and there was a blinding flash of light.

"Thank you, Mr. Maine," said the photographer, his voice heavy with sarcasm.

With an exclamation of rage, Maine rose to his feet. He let forth a loud torrent of abuse and started after the retreating newspaperman. This time Anita could not hold him and she stood quivering with fear and embarrassment as those in the vicinity, rudely snatched back from the calm world of the symphony, rose as one man to enjoy the spectacle of the fight.

Otto was caught unaware. He had not expected that Maine would make an issue of it, and the push which he received sent him spinning and left him sprawling in the aisle. In the suddenness of the attack he had released his camera which rolled beneath Maine's feet and received the punishment which the restraining arms of a few spectators prevented Maine from inflicting on the photographer.

Anita was helpless. "Normie! Stop! Everybody's looking! Don't!" she kept pleading to no avail.

Two attendants had rushed to the scene. They pinned Maine's arms to his sides and diplomatically urged him to his seat while the photographers, rescuing the battered remnant of their camera beat a hasty retreat. In a moment, the noise had subsided and the cool night air carried only the sounds of the agitated violins as they gathered for a triumphant finale.

On the way home Esther's thought kept swining back to the eventful evening. Dannie's job and Beethoven and Norman Maine!

"Is he always like that?" she asked suddenly.

"Is who always like that?" He wished that once in a while he could follow the maze of her thoughts and come out where he was supposed to emerge.

"Why, Norman Maine, silly."

His masculine pride was hurt. You take out a swell kid like Esther and all you get is Norman Maine.

"Well, I suppose he has to sleep some time."

Esther disregarded the slander. "Oh! And he's so wonderful on the screen."

"If you ask me," said Dannie, "Maine's riding for an awful fall. Trouble with him is he's had too much of everything. Before he knows where he's at, he'll be out joining the other has-beens. It happens here every day. Of course if he had some one like you to take care of him..."

Esther had to smile at Dannie's clumsy gallantry. He was a great comfort, and proved himself so in the endless days that followed, but there were many things that even he did not understand. He could never be made to realize that Hollywood did not mean just a job to her, that it was part of her being, an urgent necessity, that prompted her to remain here. She did not mind the constant haunting of studio offices; she was resigned to being closed in her room during the afternoon hours when the casting offices sent out their phone calls for extras. What irked her was that nobody recognized her destiny.

She thought often of Granny during these days, and kept her posted on her progress. Back in Fillmore Granny had accepted Esther's reports with a grain of salt and she kept sending money, over Esther's protests. Granny learned about the director, Daniel McGuire, who said that "I'm certain to get a job very soon." She read between the lines and continued the small gifts which were all Esther had to keep her going.

Every evening Dannie would come into her room and detail the shooting progress of "War Is Hell."

The trouble with the script, the treacherous days when a single scene had to be taken and retaken until it was sometimes 9 at night before Burke wearily called a halt—these things became part of Esther's life too, and she sometimes felt that she was an intimate part of the picture.

On the night when "War Is Hell" was ready for the cutting department, Dannie stormed into Esther's room, a brown paper package in his hand and a look of triumph on his face. He had about him an air of one who could, if he wished, impart tremendous news.

Esther noted his mysterious expression. "What's the matter, Dannie?" she asked.

He made the most of his big moment, and dramatically held out the package as long as possible.

"Believe it or not, I've got a job for you!"

"Dannie, that's wonderful news. When ran toward him excitedly. "When do I go to the studio?" she demanded importunately.

This wasn't turning out as he had expected. For a moment he was at a loss.

"Well, you don't exactly go to the studio."

"Oh, it's on location!"

"Well, it isn't exactly on location either."

CHILDREN OF TIMES GONE BY.

II—In Old Europe.

Nine hundred years ago, most people in Europe could not even write their names. This fact helps explain why some historians say that period was in the "Dark Ages." In some ways, at least the people were in darkness. They knew little about science, and few of them owned books—could have read one, if they had had it.

From the age of seven to 14, it was the custom for the son of a knight or noble to serve as a "page." He waited on the table of the "lord and lady," and went hunting with the lord. On the hunting trips, it was his duty to hold extra spears and arrows ready for the use of his master.

If a priest lived at the castle the page was likely to be taught a little about reading and writing. There was also some teaching in music (playing the harp), and the page might learn to sing minstrel songs.

At the age of 14, a page became a "squire." One of his new duties was to polish his lord's helmet and shield, and to see that the coat-of-mail did not get rusty. He, himself, was not allowed to wear armor, but sometimes, on a journey, he carried his master's shield, lances and helmet until they were needed. The noble did not want to be weighed down by them until he was ready to enter a tilting-match, tournament or battle.

After serving in that manner until he was 20 or 21 years of age, the squire was ready to be made a knight. A priest or knight or noble performed the ceremony of "dubbing" him a knight.

NEW YORK, April 26.—(P)—

The bottom fell out of the stock market today as speculative forces dumped holdings at losses of 1 to 5 points generally. There were a few much wider downswings.

A large assortment of leaders touched new lows for the year or longer and heavy selling waves frequently put the ticker tape several minutes behind.

Most brokerage quarters apparently were at sea regarding the prime reason for the plunge. Some pointed to the recurrence of rumors the government is considering steps to stem the extraordinary inflow of gold. Early reports a statement on the matter would be made by the administration subsequently were denied at the White House.

An additional factor was seen in more than the usual amount of offerings from abroad. Commission houses with foreign connections noted a number of speculators in London and on the continent had been hard hit lately by the slump in world commodity prices and may have been forced to disgorge security commitments to cover their losses in staples.

Depressing also was another break in rubber, grain and cotton futures as well as a drop in export copper. While United States government bonds just about held their own, secondary corporate loans weakened. As Chicago wheat was off 3-1/8 to the limit of 5c a bushel permitted in a day's trading, Corn lost 1 to 2-5/8. Cotton yielded 90 cents to $1.35 a bale. Rubber was off more than 1 cent a pound.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks retreated 2.1 points at 66.9, a new 1937 bottom. The decline was the most severe for transfers of 2,020,810 shares compared with 1,202,559 Friday and was the largest aggregate since April 7.

ALL-TIME HIGH SEEN FOR CHINA'S LINT CROP

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(P) The Agriculture Department said today China's 1936 lint cotton crop might reach an all-time high of 3,700,000 bales.

With continued favorable weather, the department said the 1937 acreage probably would be greater than last year.

Most brokerage quarters apparently were at sea regarding the prime reason for the plunge. Some pointed to the recurrence of rumors the government is considering steps to stem the extraordinary inflow of gold. Early reports a statement on the matter would be made by the administration subsequently were denied at the White House.

An additional factor was seen in more than the usual amount of offerings from abroad. Commission houses with foreign connections noted a number of speculators in London and on the continent had been hard hit lately by the slump in world commodity prices and may have been forced to disgorge security commitments to cover their losses in staples.

Depressing also was another break in rubber, grain and cotton futures as well as a drop in export copper. While United States government bonds just about held their own, secondary corporate loans weakened. As Chicago wheat was off 3-1/8 to the limit of 5c a bushel permitted in a day's trading, Corn lost 1 to 2-5/8. Cotton yielded 90 cents to $1.35 a bale. Rubber was off more than 1 cent a pound.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks retreated 2.1 points at 66.9, a new 1937 bottom. The decline was the most severe for transfers of 2,020,810 shares compared with 1,202,559 Friday and was the largest aggregate since April 7.

ALL-TIME HIGH SEEN FOR CHINA'S LINT CROP

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(P) The Agriculture Department said today China's 1936 lint cotton crop might reach an all-time high of 3,700,000 bales.

With continued favorable weather, the department said the 1937 acreage probably would be greater than last year.

TARZAN'S QUEST No. 110

Tarzan's heart burned with dark, fierce anger when the lying Prince Shorov told him that Jane had run away with Lady Greytoke. He did not for a moment question Jane's loyalty, but he judged that the brutal aviator had forced her to accompany him.

"Come; we shall find Lady Greytoke and Brown." "Brown will kill me; he threatened me many times," Shorov whispered. "He will not kill you while I am with you." "You do not know him," "I do not need to know him," the ape-man answered grimly; "I know myself."

The cowardly prince sought every excuse to avoid an encounter with Brown; but Tarzan, impatient to resume his search for Jane, flung him across his shoulder and leaped into the trees. Shorov was not a large man, but his weight was certainly an unwelcome handicap.

Though he disliked the fellow instinctively, the ape-man believed Shorov had been Jane's friend; otherwise he would have left him in the jungle. And now, despite his burden, he traveled rapidly to fulfill his double mission—to find Jane, and to kill Brown!

BULDOGS, L. S. U. TOP S'EASTERN

By THE UNITED PRESS.
If past performances are any criterion, the University of Georgia track team will fight it out with Louisiana State for the championship in the Southeastern conference track meet at Birmingham May 15.

If there were no conference track meet this year, L. S. U., who lost but one dual meet in six years, might rest on the laurels of a long track dynasty and claim the championship. But with Georgia's team of brilliant, individual stars, including two 1936 Olympic team members, a bitter struggle was indicated between the two universities.

Basing predictions on past performances this season, the Bayou Bengals could win the two-mile run, 220-yard high hurdles, shot-put, pole-vault and mile relay.

BULDOGS SWEEP DASHES.
Georgia could win the 100-yard dash, 44-yard dash, 120-yard high hurdles, high jump, broad jump and discus. And with Spec Towns, world's outstanding hurdler, and Bobby Packard, a sensational sprinter who was a freshman last year, Georgia easily could sweep the field in the dashes and timber-topping.

In the discus event the standout is Maurice Green, of Georgia, who threw the disc 147 feet 8 inches in a dual meet with Auburn. In practice he has hurled it 154 feet 6 inches. He won the Penn relays with a toss of 148 feet 2 1/2 inches Friday.

In the hundred, Packard's time of 9.8 has been equaled by Melvin Dovith, Ole Miss speedster, and Jones, of Georgia Tech.

Dovith negotiated the 220 in 21.2 Saturday in a dual meet with Alabama's sophomore track team. Packard and Waugh, of Tulane, previously held the best time this year.

Ty Cobb Wins Golf Tournament

DEL MONTE, Cal. April 26.—(P)—By virtue of halving a hole, Ty Cobb, whose name is synonymous with baseball, was champion today of the California Indians golf tournament.

He defeated W. M. Wurlium, of Los Angeles, in the finals of the tournament yesterday.

Under the handicap system used at Del Monte a half hole credit is given for a hole that is halved.

Veteran Strong Man Visiting in Atlanta

Jimmie Nicholas, the strongest lightweight in the world, arrived in Atlanta yesterday for a visit. He is getting along in the middle years but still is strong enough to bridge with a 750-pound weight on his chest and do other strong-man stunts.

He is a former professional strong man and wrestler. Now he gives exhibitions. He is, he says, soon to give a benefit performance for his church.

Best records made this spring in other events by L. S. U. track stars was 48 feet in the shotput by Lester, 9:53.2 in the two-mile run by Hamilton, and 3:20.5 in the mile relay by Day, Murphy, Treadway and Rogers.

Georgia's Arnold broad jumped 23 feet 4 inches for the best record in that event. Towns did the 120-yard high hurdles in 14.3. Harman high-jumped 6 feet 3 1/2 inches in a dual meet with Auburn.

Georgia, however, was faced with the threat of loss of Packard in the S. E. C. meet. The ace sprinter pulled a muscle in the finals of the special 100-yard invitation race at Philadelphia in the Penn relays, and it was feared he might not be available.

But with 20 more days before the meet, and with several other dual meets scheduled, no one was making any definite predictions. They just agreed it could be either Georgia or L. S. U.

'BRAINS TO WIN TONIGHT,' DOYLE

LONDON, April 26.—(P)—Jack Doyle, the Irish Thrush, created a sensation in pugilistic circles today by announcing that brains will win tomorrow night's 12-round fight with King Levinsky at Wembley.

As the former Guardsman has, like Levinsky, firmly established a reputation as a non-thinker, the experts were at a loss as to picking the winner on the basis of Doyle's statement.

"I've learned to think," Doyle declared out of a clear sky. To prove it, he pointed out that in his last fight, when he got knocked down, he took a count on nine before rising.

"Brains count in all things," he concluded sagely.

Levinsky, who is in good trim after a long siege of training at Dumb Bell Tavern at Taplow, wasn't impressed by Doyle's revolutionary notion.

"Who's that cluck to talk about brains?" he muttered. "I'll knock him out."

Dumb Bell tavern, incidentally, bore that name before the Kingfish ever came to England.

Levinsky, at 202, will spot Doyle about 20 pounds.

MACK PRAISES AL WILLIAMS

again, 5-4, coming out for a pinch-hitter in the eighth. He's pitched 15 1/3 innings, allowed 11 hits and four runs, two of which were unearned.

ONE OF BEST.

"He's one of the best youngsters I've had in a long while," commented Connie Mack. "He has his own ideas about pitching. And he has a heart. Nothing scares him. In one of the Washington games Al Simmons came out to bat with the bases loaded and he calmly struck him out."

William looks like an animated pretzel out on the mound pitching. He twists his arms and legs in all kinds of crazy shapes. He has a good curve, a fine sinker ball and a great change of pace.

The wind kept whipping around Williams' legs, red from the cold and he looked up at the towering stands, with fewer than 2,000 people in them.

"Say when I pitch here I hope they're full," he said. "I like to pitch before big crowds. But I don't want no cold weather like this when I pitch."

Time Out! By Chet Smith

"The fight's off—he says they promised him a shot at Barney Ross—so he's on a sit-down strike."

CORDELE BEATS TALLAHASSEE.
TALLAHASSEE, Fla., April 26.—The Cordele Reds defeated the Chattahoochee Capitals here this afternoon, 5-3, as Adams, chunky right-hander, allowed only five hits, three of them runs.

The Reds touched Red Ruddle, local right-hander, for lone runs in the second and third frames and rallied to score three more in the seventh. Lefty Lowery hurled the final two innings for the Caps and held the Reds at bay.

MAILIN AND MAILHO.
The two Cracker outfielders shared honors yesterday. Both had two doubles apiece. Mauldin scored two runs, each time as the result of Mailho's clutch hitting. Mailho made a great catch in the fifth when he backed up against the right-field signs and caught Tait's long drive.

The Crackers were out-hit, to 11, but they had the edge getting their blows when they meant the most. Galvin was the other Cracker getting two hits. On the Chick side, Bush led the attack with three singles. Calvey hit a double and a single.

Jim Galvin did a fine job catching Leonard's knuckle ball yesterday. Very few of them got past him. He missed no this strikes as Leonard whiffed at Chicks.

Manager Moore said the revised batting order would stand pat. produced for him yesterday.

followed with his first double to left. Mailho came up right behind him with his first double, scoring Mauldin. Paul Richards' single scored Mailho. Hutcheson forced Richards and Jim Galvin flied to center.

TRIPLETT TRIPLES.

Joe Grace drew a life on Richards' misplay in the third and raced home on Triplett's triple up the bank in right-center. And in the fourth, the Chicks tied up the game when Haley, Martynik and Bush singled in succession.

The Crackers forged ahead in their half of the inning. Richards walked and advanced on Hutcheson's sacrifice. Galvin walked. After Johnny Hill skied to Triplett, Buster Chatham delivered a clutch single to score Richards. Leonard forced Chatham.

Memphis tied up the game in the sixth on singles by Calvey, Martynik and Bush.

Then the Crackers went two better in their half. Richards walked again and Hutcheson scored him at second. It was on the play at first that Southworth contended Hutcheson was out and a violent argument ensued. Kober ejected Southworth as a result.

GALVIN DOUBLES.
Jim Galvin, the G-man, came up and punched a double to left, with Hutcheson holding third. Whereupon Hill cracked a single to left, scoring both runners.

This timely wallop put the Crackers out in front by two runs, but the margin wasn't enough. For the Chicks staged a two-run rally in the seventh to pull up even for the third time.

Grace walked, Triplett grounded out and Tait walked. Reese bounced a hit off Leonard's glove, loading the bases. Calvey's double scored Grace and Tait. But Calvey expired when Haley fanned and Martynik grounded out.

Leonard took a hitch in his belt and turned back the Chicks in order in the eighth and ninth and the Crackers then put on the Mailho-Mauldin act again to win the game.
